EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE price of peanuts has gone up.

A PLOT has been discovered to shoot the Prince of Wales. We hope they will leave the Prince alone as he is hardly worth the powder.

THE reason why so many of Harrison's appointments do not meet the approval of the Democracy, is because he only appoints Republicans.

THE New York city people never did take much delight in looking at Union soldiers; but they will see a great many of them during the inaugural celebration.

THE more Boulanger is persecuted the greater hero he becomes. French authorities should know that without the disagreeable experience of learning it in the way they are now doing.

ISN'T it strange that a descendant of the last King of Jerusalem should quarrel with his wife and want a divorce? But just that peculiar circumstance is now agitating English society.

Now, Murat Halstead, don't think of accepting the German mission even if it is offered you. It is easier for you to get even with those obstreperous senators in your capacity of editor than it would be as a foreign minister.

THEY say Maggie Mitchell has procured a divorce from her husband whose name is Paddock. We should think Paddock would be glad to get rid of Maggie for there is no use in having a wife unless she takes her husband's name.

GENERAL JOHN M. PALMER, of Illinois is badly inoculated with the presidential fever in his old age, and is looking forward to 1892 for a Democratic nomination. General Palmer recently took unto himself a wife, who seems to have filled him with a fresh ambition.

OKLAHOMA is likely to see a high old time before the month closes. The rush for lands is amazing. One would imagine judging from the number of settlers enroute for the new territory, that all the rest of the globe was preempted. Oklahoma like early Kansas, may be written down as "bleeding" Oklahoma.

THE House at Harrisburg declined to give the retail grocers the right to attach wages for debt incurred in the purchase of the necessaries of life. The grocers have other means of redress more potent than the law asked for. They can refuse to sell goods to all whom they have reason to believe will not pay them.

THERE is a movement on foot in Atlantic City to build a handsome cottage, facing the sea, to be reserved for the use of the President and his family. Many of the most prominent people are interested in the plan, and if it matures, abundance of money will be forthcoming to erect and furnish the building, which is to be called "The President's Cottage."

WHEN we criticise errors in the Altoona Times that paper pleads the baby act. It acuses us of similar errors and says that a paper edited by a boy and a girl should not forge to the front. Just what this allusion means we are at loss to know, but the Times seems to be as weak and sensitive as its Tyrone correspondent is faulty in his use of language.

"HAVE we an American aristocracy?" inquires the New York Herald. Well, we have some people who ape the aristocrats of Europe and who would dearly love to be recognized as the American aristocracy, but our people are generally distinguished for good sense and a hatred of sham, so that the soil is not particularly well adapted to the growth of any aristocracy save that of merit.

IT is said that Major Armes has abjectly apologized to Governor Beaver for his outrageous conduct in Washington and begs the Governor to intercede to prevent a court maitial, which will disgrace Armes' family and cause the Major to commit suicide. While Armes should have thought of this before, still it would be magnanimous in the Governor to intercede for the fellow. To err is human; to forgive divine.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 15th, 1889.

Secretary Rusk has been giving the Department of Agriculture a vigorous shaking up, the first result of which is a long list of new appointments and a long list of discharges, called through courtesy "resignations."

Secretary Blaine has received notifications from a number of the Central and South American Governments that that they will send delegates to the "Three Americas Congress," which is to be held in this city next October. It is now almost certain that every American Government will be represented. Much benefit to us and a large increase in trade with those countries is expected to follow the conference.

Secretary Proctor has issued an order to the effect that when suitable supplies of domestic manufacture or production cannot be obtained for the War Department, and it becomes necessary to purchase articles of foreign manufacture or production, authority for such purchase must first be obtained from the Secretary of War. This means that no more contracts are to be made with English manufacturers, as was done by the Cleveland administration, to supply the U. S. Army with blankets, because by admitting them free of duty the Government saved a few cents on each blanket. Secretary Proctor thinks American manufactures should be given the contracts.

Mr. Thomas B. Coulter, of Ohio, who was backed by Senator Sherman, has been appointed Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department. This is regarded by the Ohio people as quite a victory, owing to the fact that several other States were pressing candidates for this very important position.

Senator Spooner, whose smiling visage has been seen at the White House almost daily since the Inauguration, has gone home. He proposes taking his wife and boy to Europe the latter part of this month. After telling the President's "goodbye" he remarked to a friend standing by: "I feel as though I deserved a rest. Since a year ago last November I have been busily engaged in attending strictly to Senatorial duties. The only break in that period was during the campaign, when I delivered on an average three speeches a day.

Col. Fred Grant is here receiving his last instructions previous to sailing for his post. He called on the President last Saturday and after coming down stairs he held an impromptu reception among the older employes of the White House who were there when he was a gay light-hearted youth. The scene was quite affecting.

Representative Peters, of Kansas, is a "hustler." Although there will not be a single legal settler in the Oklahoma country until a week from to-day, Mr. Peters has succeeded in getting two of his constituents appointed pastmasters, one at each of the Government land offices which will be opened out there on Monday.

It is thought the silver question will be the cause of considerable discussion in the near future. Senator Stewart recently called on Secretary Windom in order to endeavor to influence him to increase the monthly purchase of silver bullion, He argued that it was an excellent way to reduce the surplus. But the Secretary was not convinced. He said he had twenty millions of silver dollars now in the vaults of the Treasury which he would be very glad to part with. To purchase more silver would be, in his opinion, simply changing the surplus from gold and paper to silver. The Secretary finally told the Senator that he could not decide the question until it had been carefully weighed and considered by the President, and discussed by the Cabinet. In the meantime Senator Stewart is vigorously advocating his proposition.

Assistant Secretary Bussey, of the Department of the Interior, is the official who has to finally pass judgment on all cases of appeal from the decision of the Commissioner of Pensions. He has already proven himself qualified for the difficult duties of the position. He has reversed a number of decisions of the late Commissioner of Pensions, and the grounds of reversal have been such that no unprejudiced man could object to them, while they will give justice to many needy old soldiers who have been unjustly kept out of the pensions they should have long ago had.

Commissioner of Pensions Tanner has issued the following order: "Whenever a pensioner is disabled in a hand or foot in a degree entitling him to $24 per month under the act of March 3rd, 1885, such pensioner shall by reason of that fact, be entitled to the rate of $50 per month under the act of August 4th, 1886."

Representative Tom Reed, of Maine, is a zealous antiquarian. He spends a great deal of his spare time here, looking over the stock of second hand book-stores. Occasionally he discovers a prize, a fact that no one is quicker to recognize than himself. It is still cold in his northern home and that is one reason of his lingering in Washington.

A Hero at Present Sick and Suffering.

MR. EDITOR: The enclosed facts will no doubt be interesting to the Gregg Post, No. 95, Bellefonte, and many other friends of David Sayers, First Lieutenant Company "B," 148 Regt, Penn'a, Vol. Infantry.

He was one of the many victims of General Beaver's regiment who was ordered to be sacrificed to save the main army at Poe River, May 10, 1864, He was then corporal, only a boy, but true to his calling. On—on he bravely bore the colors in the midst of the battle. First his cap was shot off, then his knapsack, then his canteen, and we have it from good authority his blouse was riddled to pieces. Then a bullet penetrated his left breast and came out underneath his shoulder. From this wound he suffered terribly; he was sent to the field hospital—thence to Philadelphia.

Having recovered sufficiently, he was again sent to the front, promoted to be 1st Lieutenant and wounded a second time at the battle of Gravel Run. This time the bullet entered above his left knee, coming out at the thigh making another ghastly wound.

Ever since he has been a continual sufferer. To-day he is a constitutional wreck—comparatively no flesh, no muscle, nerves completely shattered, left lung gone--discouraged, disabled.

Wednesday, April 10, instant, he had a special examination by Dr. J Sperry Thomas, of Philadelphia, who gave his diagnosis. Phthesis caused by injury to lung from gun shot wound, and gave the patient the indicated expectorant. Strange but true, on Sunday, April 14, he coughed up a fragment of bone, which in all probability had been embedded in the lung tissue since May 10, 1864—a period of nearly twenty-five years.

Respectfully yours, A FRIEND.
Milesburg, April 15, 1889.

A VENERABLE and eloquent minister of the gospel upon being complimented upon the fact that age had diminished the vigor of his intellect or the eloquence of his language, said: 'I think the older a man gets the better fitted he should be for work. With advancing years a lawyer, a physician, a preacher, should gain knowledge and wisdom, and thus be the better qualified for his work." And he added: "I study as hard now as ever I did." He uttered a golden truth in those few words. No man need lose his mental vigor with advancing age if his physical strength remain, save by his own carelessness and indifference. Look at Gladstone, the greatest man of our age, eloquent as ever, capable of prolonged labor at 80, and more popular to-day than at any previous period of his life.

OUR Free Trade Democratic brethren will please take notice that a syndicate or "trust" is forming in England, with a capital of $500,000,000, to control the coal mines in that country. England is the Free Trade paradise, and we are told that trusts are the effect of a Protective tariff exclusively. Will some talented Free Trader have the kindness to explain how a trust can be formed in a Free Trade country, then? Blaine's remark last summer that "England is plastered over with trusts" was truer than Free Traders would acknowledge.

SUNDAY was the 24th anniversary of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. Wonder how many people remembered it?

They have careful housekeepers down East. A family in Hope, Me., has been keeping house for 13 years and never broke a lamp chimney until last week. It was another instance of ill-luck following the number 13.

Some Washington ladies adopted an original method of making their pastor a donation on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his installation. They gave him a bouquet of 25 large lilies, and in each lily was a $5 gold piece.

CAUSE FOR EXPULSION.

The public school law now in force in this State provides that the use of profane or obscene language by any pupil shall constitute good cause for expulsion from schools, also that any who shall cut, deface or otherwise injure school houses, fences or outbuildings thereof, are liable to suspension and punishment, and the parents of such pupils shall be liable for damages for the amount of injury, on complaint of the teacher, the amount to be determined by the directors and collection through the court.

What Arbor Day has Done.

The first Arbor day was observed in Nebraska seventeen years ago, when 12,000,000 trees were planted. There are now growing in the State 605,000,000 trees. In other States many millions of trees have been planted, and at the present time thirty-four States observe an Arbor Day. One hundred thousand acres of valuable lands on the Bay of Biscay were planted with trees by Bremontier, which now yield France an annual income of 130,000 francs.

ON the subject of the Prohibition Amendment, the Watchman quotes the opinion of some lawyers in Massachusetts. It is against the Amendment. But this opinion of lawyers is an interesting subject to study, and we are pleasantly and delightedly surprised that so many Bellefonte lawyers are in favor of Prohibition. Their opinion is of much more importance than that of lawyers in Massachusetts possibly can be. When the subject is considered there is every selfish reason why lawyers should oppose the Amendment—especially such as are engaged in criminal business. To vote for the Amendment is to vote their business away, for it is acknowledged by all best informed people that in the event of the adoption of Prohibition at least one-half of the criminal business would disappear. Therefore, we say all honor to the lawyers who are brave enough to vote for Prohibition, even if it does injure their business. We hope that people who read the article in the Watchman will also read these comments on the same subject.

SENATOR SHERMAN in an interview, while passing through Pittsburg a day or two ago, said there was a growing sentiment favoring a union of this country with Canada and he thinks that there is no question, but a union between the two countries will eventually be formed. It may be many years before the event is accomplished, but that the two countries will eventually be united, the Ohio Senator thinks inevitable. He may not see it, but he believes the younger generation may.

THERE is as much in the average titles of news articles at the present day as in the articles themselves. Sometimes they seem absolutely heartless. Here is one to an article which narrates the fact of a wealthy lady arriving in this country being detained at the custom house because of supposed insanity. The Pittsburg Times entitles it "Insane but well Fixed"—A lady Immigrant short on wits but long on Baggage:"

EX-GOV. ALGER, of Michigan was in Washington a few days. In response to an inquiry he said: "I am not here to discuss politics. Up in Michigan the people are letting the administration alone. The logs are coming down the streams, navigation is open on the lakes, the ice is out of the straits, the wheat is looking finely and business is booming. What more can you ask? I was over in New York and felt lonely, so I came down here to see some friends."

OF the Philadelphia newspapers it is noticeable that the Record, the Times and the Press are not waisting ink in the cause of prohibition.—Tyrone Times. Of the three, the Record is entitled to the most respect because it is open in its opposition to prohibition, while the others mentioned, just like the Altoona Times, profess to be neutral, while they really do all they can to fight the amendment.

THE Democratic managers are looking around for a candidate for State Treasurer—not with the slightest expectation of electing him but merely for the sake of keeping up appearances. Considering the demoralized condition of the party in Pennsylvania, it is not remarkable that no one is very anxious to obtain the nomination.

Excursion to the Inaugural.

For the better accomodation of the large number of people who desire to witness the elaborate ceremonies arranged for the celebration of the Centennial Anniversary of the Inauguration of General Washington as First President of the United States, in New York, on April 29th, 30th, and May 1st, 1869, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to New York from all principal stations on its system between April 27th and May 1st inclusive, at three cents per mile. The rate from Philadelphia for the round trip will be $2.70, from Baltimore $5 58 and from Washington $6.84, Pittsburg $13.32, and proportionately from all other stations.

Tickets are good only for continuous passage on through trains to New York from April 27th to May 1st, but no ticket will be sold on May 1st for any train arriving in New York later than noon of that day. Returning, the tickets will be good for continuous passage on trains leaving New York April 27th to May 6th, inclusive. No excursion ticket will be sold for less than one dollar.

EX-GOVERNOR JOHN SCHUYLER CROSBY, of Montana, the individual who is carrying on an action for libel against Russell Harrison, is acting in a very silly manner. The facts seem to be about as follows: Some time ago a statement was sent from Washington and published in a Buffalo paper to the effect that a wealthy Senator's daugher had lost $100,000 worth of diamonds and that a detective had traced them to the possession of a man who was an ex consul and had filled other offices. The person was described with sufficient explicitness to establish his identity. The story was doubtless entirely false. Anyway, Governor, Crosby, who was the individual described, threatened to sue the Buffalo paper for $100,000 damages unless a retraction should be printed. The retraction was published. The Montana Live Stock Journal, which is conducted by a company of which Russell Harrison is president, reproduced the article. Then the individual thus slandered threatened to bring suit for $50,000 unless a retraction should be published and a personal apology be made by Russell Harrison. Mr. Harrison said the paper would publish the retraction, but he would not publish a personal apology, because he, though legally responsible, was not morally so, knowing nothing of the article until he saw it in the paper. But the fellow insists on holding him personally responsible, and the result is the action for $50,000 damages. Mr. Harrison came all the way from the West to New York city to be arrested. Within twelve minutes he had procured the necessary $5,000 bail and is a free man, at least until the trial. The fellow should have considered the retraction sufficient and it is very absurd to insist on an apology from Mr. Harrison.

THIS is one of those mean little items that now occur quite frequently in the Philadelphia Press:

"The courts of Iowa have decided that cider cannot be sold in that state. This is a blow at the vinegar business."

The courts of Iowa have made no such decision. It is well known there are two kinds of cider—that which is fresh from the press and that which has been kept until fermentation has taken place. The first, which is nothing but the pure juice of the apple and contains no alcohol, may be freely sold in Iowa or any other state of the union, as the Press well knows. As for the alcoholized cider, it cannot be lawfully sold in Iowa as a beverage, nor for that matter in Pennsylvania, except by a licensed hotel keeper. But even that may be sold for other than drinking purposes, even in Iowa, so that the decision of the Iowa courts is not "a blow at the vinegar business." If the Press wants to fight the prohibition amendment let it come out in the open field. No bushwhacking!

SAID a Republican Senator: "When you hear anybody telling about what Harrison's policy will be, on any subject, put him down for either a fraud or an ignoramous. Harrison has no policy. He decides everything just as it comes up, on its merits, and that is why he makes no mistakes. It is only a narrow minded man who sets up a policy and then tries to make everything dovetail into it. The broadgauged man like Harrison takes everything separately and is governed in the settlement of each case by the particular circumstances surrounding it."

Poetry.

Hope's Song

"And will it be," said Hope to me
"That over the snow he'll come,
And the beckoning light of your window bright
Will guide him, weary, home?

"Or will it be," said Hope to me,
"On a summer's eventide,
When the tender glow of the sunset's low
You shall walk side by side?

"Or will it be," said Hope to me
"When the sky is dull and gray
And thou downcast, he will come at last
And brighten all the day?

"Or will it be," said Hope to me,
"You may put my pictures by,
Save one, the best and the faithfullest
To look at when you die;

"Of a gleaming sea," said Hope to me,
"And a fair shore, calm and sweet,
Where hearts I wish like thine and his
Have never failed to meet."

Our Story Teller

WHY DON'T YOU TELL HER SO?

It was a face more childlike than womanly that turned from the mirror with an impatient little gesture, saying: "What is the good of it? He don't care."

The beautiful face clouded, the sweet lips quivered and settled into a little pout for a few moments as she stood at the window watching for somebody's coming.

Another moment and a quick step was heard in the hall, and soon after William Upton, Bessie's husband, entered. The little wife raised her eyes, not expectant, but a little hopeful to his. She knew that she was looking prettily. Would he tell her so, or notice it?

Nay, not even by a smile showing his pleasure, but the same greeting as ever.

"Order up dinner Bessie."

She turned and left the room, her quivering lip revealed the wounded spirit, while her husband, already absorbed in his paper, failed to notice the sad look in her eyes.

"Oh, if he would only say sometimes such things as he used to say," was her plaintiff thought as she closed the door behind her. "I would give even years of my life to hear them. If he loved me as he should—as I do him, more and more the longer we live—he would show it, would tell me so. What would it cost him to say those words my heart is perishing for—words so little to him, so mighty to me? No matter whether I look ill or well, no comments. The same way when I arrange anything to please him. He has grown indifferent, to say the least. And, O heaven, I dare not think what may follow!"

She had prepared a dish for dinner that Will was particularly fond of, but no word of praise fell from his lips, the meal was eaten in comparative silence, he occupied by business thoughts, she waiting hopefully for some kind word.

His dinner finished, Will was hurrying off when Bessie said: "You won't forget the opera to-night, Will?"

"Oh, no—be all ready; I shall be back in time."

She looked as if she wanted to say something more, and William asked: "What is it, Bess? Speak quickly. I must be off."

"Nothing," she said.

He hurried off. A sigh escaped Bessie's lips, and turning from the door, she exclaimed: "How different! In by gone days, so very different! I wanted to ask him to bring me some flowers to wear to-night. But he does not care how I look; and why should I?"

William Upton became every day more absorbed in money-making; and Bessie grew so miserable in the belief that she had lost her husband's love, that in mere desperation, she plunged into a whirl-pool of gayety and fashionable dissipation. Young, beautiful, accomplished, she won admiration always. Looks and words denied by her husband were lavished bountifully by other men.

On one occasion William's thoughts were drawn from the counting-house long enough to express his admiration in a decided manner of a beautiful woman, the widow of an old friend. His remarks were heard by one who made good haste to use them—one whose devotion to Bessie was known by every one, save her husband. Skillfully this man used his weapon, pricking her deeply, wounding so surely that the sore and bleeding heart was ready to flee to any one offering sympathy.

She listened, orphaned and childless no aged ones with wise counsel to direct her; no caressing baby's arms to twine around and hold her firm against temptation. Words for which she had been starving were poured into her ear. Taught to believe her husband false to her, she promised to flee from him to one who vowed such devotion.

"To-morrow night, Bessie, my beautiful bird, your cage door shall be opened and you shall be free You will come with me then?"

"To-morrow! God pity me! Yes, to-morrow I will be free!" she said; yet darted back, with a fierce look, pale and trembling, from the arms that would have embraced her, and, with a bitter, moaning cry, sank as the door closed, to the floor repeating the words again and again: "God pity—God help me!"

A little while, and William would come. Throwing herself down, she feigned sleep. Soon after he came, bent over her and drew softly back. With guarded steps he sought the lounge, and laid down without disrobing. Not long before she heard him breathing softly, and knew he slept.

One long, last look, and then farewell. She stooped, and strained her eyes to see by the dim light the features once all the world to her, and even then "too dear," she thought.

A few little things to gather up, and she was ready. With her hand on the door she turned for one more look—drawing back in the shade as she saw him start up, and, looking wildly round, call: "Bessie! Bessie! love! Where are you? Heavens, what a fearful dream! Oh, there you are! Thank God! I thought I had lost you!"

She had dropped her hat and shawl and stood before him with a look so intense and eager it was almost fierce, as she asked, in a thrilling voice: "Would you have cared?"

"Cared! Why what ails you, love?"

"Tell me!" she cried.

"More than to lose my own life, Bessie."

"Saved—saved! Not lost!—no, no—found!—saved!" she cried, and sank fainting in her husband's arms.

Pity and help from the mercy-seat had answered her cry.

The foiled tempter received the next day a little note saying, "I am free now from all doubts and misgivings, and blessed with my husband's perfect love, to whom my inmost heart has been revealed."

She saw him no more. Yes, she told her husband all. And within his clasping arms she learned to know how truly and solely he loved her.

In after days Bessie's life was truly happy, and although she needed no further assurances of her husband's love, he gave them to her.

And once, in after years, when a young friend of William Upton, recently married, was telling him how lovely his young wife was, William said in a manner and tone that made a deep impression: "My young friend, tell her so. Say to her what you have said to me. Tell her so often, and take my word or it, you will give her a balm to retain her beauty forever. There is no cosmetic like it. And in the far distant future, when time may have whitened her sunny hair, and dimmed the brightness of her eye, the heart which you have kept still young, pure and happy, will illume the faded beauty of her face, which, will still be to you the loveliest on earth. And then—why, then tell her so.

Photographing the Heavens.

Astronomers of the different nations have entered upon a plan for photographing the sky and all the myriads of planets and stars. All this would be impossible except in sections, each section commanding a view which will be assigned to a scientist of the nation he will represent. In this way a perfect photograph of every inch of the heavens will be obtained. The part that will fall to the United States will cost $500,000, which sum Congress when it meets is expected to lose no time in appropriating. It will be expended in constructing instruments and buildings in Washington. The Naval Observatory will perform whatever part falls to this country to do. It will take two years to complete the work after it is started.

THE MILLIONAIRE BELIEVED TO BE GENEROUS THOUGH UNOSTENTATIOUS.

From the New York Press.

Jay Gould has been constantly depicted as anything but generous outside his own family. It has been said that he rarely gives anything to charitable objects and never helps the poor and needy. The big railroad magnate has been misrepresented. Perhaps nothing has annoyed him more than the charge that he is not charitable and lacked human sympathy. He never replies to rumors about his private life, however, and therefore is charities have hitherto been unnoted.

As a matter of fact Jay Gould is a very generous man. His donations in all directions are large, but he never makes them public. He seldom gives anything in his own name. So averse is he to public benefactions and to the advertising a public benefactor gets that he chooses a medium for dispensing his charities. Jay Gould gives as much every year to charity as does Russell Sage. Yet it is never announced. Sage's gifts are published widely and his desk is covered every morning with charitable appeals from all over the country. Gould's saved the begging letters and begging visits that so harass the Sage, the Vanderbilts and others, and that may be one reason why he does his giving by proxy.

Certain it is that although Mr. Gould has never founded a hospital or established an institution of learning, his benefactions run away up in the thousands between each January and December.

For some years Mr. Gould made contributions to leading charities through a friend of his wife. This lady said that the money reached the right object and was recorded as coming from "A Friend," "One Who is Interested," or something of that kind. Then Miss Helen Gould, the magnate's daughter, took charge of her father's charitable subscriptions. She is an active church and charity worker and knew the most worthy causes for help. But the money was never given as coming from the Gould family. Miss Helen merely remarked that the sums bestowed had been placed in her hands by some of her immediate friends.

During the past two years, however, it is understood that Jay Gould's charitable contributions have been made through his pastor, the popular Dr. John R Paxton of the West Presbyterian Church, on Forty second street, near Fifth avenue Dr. Paxton declines to talk no the subject, but he has never been known to deny it. One thing is certain, no more than one occasion the eloquent preacher has announced from the pulpit that a member of his congregation had placed a large sum in his hands for certain objects. The name he was not at liberty to state, however. In summing up the work of the church early in January and enumerating the contributions of the congregation for the year Dr. Paxton said that, in addition to the various collections, "the pastor had been given $100,000 by a member of the congregation with the request to expend it where it would do the most good." It is generally believed by Dr. Paxton's parishioners that the unannounced benefactor was Jay Gould.

But, however Mr. Gould may dispense his large charities, there is one phase of his generosity that is as remarkable as it is unknown. At the country residence of the Goulds at Irvington on the Hudson there is a large house for the lodgekeeper. It stands right near the entrance to the grounds, and is as handsome a house as that possessed by many a prosperous merchant here in New York. At that house charity is dispensed all the year round. No one is ever turned away from the door. Even worthless, undeserving tramps have been known to receive a substantial supper and breakfast and lodging over night such as they never had in all their vagabond careers. There is said to be a portion of the house fitted up for wanderers. Really worthy cases are made a study of. The lodgekeeper and his family have the fullest instructions what to do and they are never allowed to slight their duties. Poor women with babies, who have been turned adrift by drunken husbands or by sudden poverty, are housed, clothed and, if sick, are restored to health. Those who ought to know say that positions are often obtained for such people. Jay Gould himself more than once has hunted up places for the worthy poor.

Yet all these deeds of kindness and acts of charity have been conducted so quietly and unostentatiously that the world, outside of a few sharp eyed neighbors, has never heard it. Year after year it has been going on, while year after year the public has been informed of how mean and grasping and how cold hearted and unsympathizing Jay Gould is.

The paying-teller of a bank should stand on a raised platform when at work so that strangers may not think he is short.

THE LEAGUE OF THE CROSS.

BY FATHER JOHN F BARRY, OF ST. PETER'S ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

(Extract from an address at a Public Meeting of the League of the Cross, Brooklyn, N. Y.)

There is no use denying the proposition that saloons produce drunkenness, and drunkenness produces crime. Against this state of affairs, therefore, we propose to strive. Of course we must necessarily hurt the saloon business, and that may antagonize the saloon-keepers. We cannot help that. What we are going to do is to save our people from perdition. This is our duty, and we must do it, no matter whom we hurt. We have God on our side and have no fear of any forces which may array themselves against us. With God's help we must win.

Never in the history of our country has the subject of intemperance received such consideration as at the present time. Light is now shed on it as never before. Religion and philanthropy have thrown their rays upon it and laid bare its depths of iniquity. No intelligent man has dubious views on the subject. The evidence is clear—no clearer if written by an angel. There are no faltering words. We know it to be one of the greatest vices with which man can be afflicted. Perhaps it has never raged more fiercely than now, and men are organized to combat it. Reformers grow weary of struggle; standing beside the graves of ruined fathers and mothers makes no impression on them, and we behold every bit of land filled with barrooms and saloons. One half of the community sleep in indifference, while we hear from every side that young men are fast becoming drunkards, manifesting plainly evidences of drink. Drinking is now done openly as glory.

NOT SENTIMENT OR THEORY.

On this subject shall I confine my remarks to the evils of intemperance, the basis of opposition. Opposition to drink is no sentiment or theory, and of its personal and social evils I will mention a few things. It has its physical evils. Alcohol is a poison. Who says so? Science. Subjected to a chemical test it is put upon the list as a vegetable poison. One physician says it has the same action as prussic acid, killing and changing in precisely the same manner Sir Astley Cooper, whose name is memorable among the list of the illustrious, says that it is possible to kill by alcohol. Dr. Pardy, in illustrating this theory, found that one and one-half tumblerfuls is sufficient to cause death to a dog. The conclusion is that nature must always succumb to poison. Oil of almonds, oil of vitriol, log wood, oil of turpentine, and a thousand other ingredients more or less destructive, form the beverages which we drink for bona fide liquor.

Drink affects the brain and wrecks it. Sad it is to reckon among the drunkards those grand intellects that in every age have enriched the minds of men with the fruit of their own learning, yet it is most true. How painful a degradation of Godlike intellects. Devils with all their depravity never become drunkards, the disgrace is peculiar to the human family alone. There is no device in the catalogue around which there are such gigantic clusters as the damnable vice of intemperance. It is the stroke which severs the cable of the commandments, the forerunner of impurity and crime and six-sevenths of these are directly traceable to its degrading influence. St. Paul says truly and emphatically, "Deceive not yourselves, the drunkard can never enter the kingdom of Heaven." Humanitarians of to-day teach us to pity crime, rather than punish, and denominate it as weakness, rather than a sin. Still the language of Scripture says that they shall never enter the kingdom of Heaven.

Its social evils are many. Where can we find the evil so weighty and so extensive as the blighted home, the ruined wife, the destitute children? There are abundant proofs surrounding you which proclaim intemperance the most hellish of vices and the intemperate man a combine of the lowest creation, the brute, and a representative of hell, the howling fiend.

Very Stout Old Lady (watching the lions fed)—'Pears to me, Mister, that ain't a very big piece o' meat fer sech an animal. Attendant (with the greatest and most stupendous show of politeness on earth)—I s'pose it does seem a small piece of meat to you, ma'am, but it's big enough for the lion.—Life.

Father (reading)—and, as Shakespeare so beautifully expresses it, 'use strengthens habit.' Daughter—I don't think that altogether right, papa. Father—Why not, my dear; how is it wrong? Daughter—Why, goodness knows, my riding habit has had 'use' enough, and instead of being strengthened by it, it is nearly worn out.—Fun.

Wife (coming home from church): "Mr. Goodman is certainly a remarkable man.' Husband: 'Why do you think so?' Wife. 'Because he only returned from Europe last week and he didn't begin his sermon with the remark, 'When I was in So-and-so.'"

Mrs. Lightpurse. 'Here is an article in this paper entitled 'The World's Debt to the Jews.' Shall I read it?' Mr. Lightpurse; 'No, that's a chestnut, I guess. Nearly everybody is in debt to the Jews, we all know that. Here, put this last pawn-ticket with the others.'

Rooney: 'Sure Oi can't see why I must be a member av yure Union if Oi want to keep me job! It's only a week I've been over here, but I know this is a free counthry.' Mooney (walking delegate): 'But remember now, man, that yure an Amerikin, an' must't perfect yuresilf again imported pauper labor!'

'May I catch your ear for a moment?' said the audacious thief as he grabbed the lady's earring.

'Certainly,' interrupted the policeman, 'and the freedom you take embraces the privileges of my club.'

Publisher—'Oh, yes, indeed. Money can be made in literature. Why, sir, I never saw women live more luxuriously than Miss Braddon and Miss Muloch.'

Experience is worth all it costs.

If money is not your servant, it will be your master.

Speaking of abbreviations, the Boston Transcript suggests that a good abbreviation for Alaska would be L. S., which, as every one knows, means the place of the seal.

Rob—"It's about time to call in these heavy ulsters, I'm thinking. I'm surprised that you're not wearing your Spring overcoat." Bob—"To tell the truth, Rob, I've lost it. You see, I hung it up as usual—" Rob—"Oh, you can't trust those pawnbrokers."

A realistic retrospect: Blobson [who has been "reminiscing"]—"Oh, dear! How I should like something to remind me of my boyhood's home." Popinjay—"Why don't you sleep on a lot of the old corn husks and hire a man to shake you out of bed every morning at 5 o'clock?"

He would be taken care of: Fond mother—'Out of a position again, my son? This will never do. You have had a dozen splendid chances within three months and did not stick to any of them a week. You must do something for a living. Have you no stamina at all?' Son—"Don't worry about me mother. I'm going to marry an actress."

A new street superintendent ought to be able to pave his way into the good graces of his fellow-citizens.

Whether or not Behring's is a closed sea may be regarded by foreign nations as an open question.

Female Sheriff—'Is your husband at home?'

Wife (suspiciously)—'He is not. What do you want of him?'

'I have an attachment for him.'

'You have! Why, you bold thing.'

BLAINE'S TESTIMONY.

Mr. Blaine says of the prohibitory liquor law in Maine, that "it is probably at this day as well executed as any law is. Both political parties alike espouse it. It was never so firmly fixed in the convictions judgement and determination of the people as at present." "At this day both parties accept as a foregone conclusion that whoever attacks it digs his own political grave." The effect of the law has been the great diminution of crime. Some of the county jails have become empty in consequence. "In Cumberland county, the most populous county in the state, there were but five prisoners four months after the passage of the law, and three of these were liquor dealers, who were imprisoned for violation of the prohibitory law. This jail had been usually overcrowded. In many places pauperism has entirely ceased, and the workhouses and almshouses have been greatly lightened of their heavy burdens." The law has stood thirty-eight years, and it is now one of the permanent and most beneficent institutions of the state."

Mr. Blaine Explains.

It is known that Mr. Blaine wishes it to be understood why certain diplomatic appointments are not more fully in accordance with his known wishes. To a friend he recently explained that when he took charge of the Department the President handed him a list of appointments he propose to make. The President seemed to have made up the list in Indianapolis before he came to Washington. Mr. Blaine said he had of course, carried out the President's wishes, and the nominations had been made out in accordance with this list. The Secretary did not manifest any feeling in telling this, as if he thought his prerogatives or preferences had been interferred with. He simply mentioned the President's action to show how some of the appointments came about and to explain how little he had to do with them.

Undeservedly Laughed At.

The unthinking are prone to make game of nervousness. Yet this is a very real and serious affliction, the harassing symptoms of which are rendered all the more poignant by ridicule. The stomach is usually responsible for these symptoms—its weakness and disorder find a reflex in the brain, which is the headquarters of the nervous system. As a nerve tonic and tranquilizer, we believe that not one can be pointed out so effective as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In renewing vigorous digestion, it strikes the key note of recovery of strength and quietude by the nerves. Headaches, tremors in quiet sleep, abnormal sensitiveness to unexpected noises—all these modify and ultimately disappear as the system gains strength from the great tonic. Dyspepsia, biliousness, rheumatism, constipation and kidney complaints are subdued by the Bitters.

—We judge by the tone of a notice in the Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin, that a representative of that paper was kicked out of a lawyer's office in that city the other day. Why didn't you kick back?

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. W C Keplinger & Co., druggists.

Work done by the Legislature.

As the days go by the "Model Legislature" seems to be accomplishing some valuable legislation.

Among the bills passed finally by the Senate were :

Regulating the liberality of employers of workmen in and about anthracite coal mines to make compensation for injuries to workmen.

To provide for making, repairing and macadamizing public roads in townships.

The House passed finally the act permitting retail druggists who failed to register within ninety days after the passage of the act of May 24th, 1887, an additional ninety days in which to register.

The act to provide transportation to Gettysburg for soldiers who go to dedicate monuments.

One of the bills defeated was that to attach wages for the expenses incurred in food, clothing and other necessaries of life.

The bill limiting the price of telephone rental to $3 per month per phone passed second reading by a score of 82 to 7.

Railroads in Japan.

Railroad making is not equally easy in every country. We have had some rough experience on this continent and in our own section of it. We can the better sympathize with the Japanese, who seem to have to go through some tough work in building their roads. The report of the Japanese railroad bureau for the last year, just published, reveals some striking facts. Of course every one, even with a limited knowledge of geography, knows that the typographical features of the country are peculiar. Hills and valleys and rivers abound. One line of 250 miles in length involves the construction of 16 tunnels, 19'000 feet long, and the bridging of eleven rivers. One of these rivers has a velocity in time of flood of 27 feet per second; in another, such is the character of the bottom, the brick piers have to be sunk to the depth of eighty feet. A range of mountains is crossed at a height of 1,468 feet. Part of another line ascends to a height of 3,144 feet, and during five months of the year is completely blocked by the snow. Picturesque traveling!—such railroads should afford.

—On Tuesday of last week at Karthaus Clearfield county, a young man was drowned in the river and search for his dead body was of no avail, on account of the muddy condition of the water. Saturday last an old gentleman who lives three miles from the place of drowning went to Karthaus and reported a dream he had the night before, in which he saw and knew the exact location of the body. He was laughed at at first, but he was so persistent that a few gentlemen accompanied him to the place where he said the body was, and after a half hour's search they discovered the body of the unfortunate young man. Strange, but true.

—John Wanamaker, the merchant prince and Postmaster General, is now in his heyday of popularity and wears his high honors easily. He has been feted and banqueted in his home in Philadelphia sufficiently to turn anyone's head. But he is impervious to any change from the effects of praise. One would think that he, with his great mercantile business and his government affairs, would have his hands full. But he finds time for everything, and exclaimed the other night, "Why, this is not work; it is only pleasure!" Happy hearted John!

—This is a National Guard order just issued: "During the months of April and May of this year there will be made by the brigade inspectors, under the direction of the acting inspector general, at such times and places as the brigade commanders may designate, an inspection of the several organizations in their armories. When the companies of a regiment are located at different places transportation will be granted by the brigade commanders to one or more of the field officers of the regiment to attend said inspection."

—Miss Elizabeth Lanning, daughter of Rev. M B Lanning, of Unionville, this county, is to be married next Thursday, the 18th instant, at the home of her parents, to Charles E Grove, M. D., of Philadelphia. The bride and groom intend to go to Washington State to locate. It will be a long wedding trip. They will have the wishes of all their friends here for their prosperity.

—The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. W. C. Woodring, on Thursday morning, at 10.30 o'clock, were attended by a vast concourse of people. Rev. William Laurie, D. D., officiated. The pall bearers were the following: James Harris, W. C. Heinle, Clement Dale, John I. Rankin, J. C. Harper and H. Y. Zitizer.

—An article we read yesterday says that nearly all the Cabinet officers are compelled to work too hard for their own good and that their health quickly breaks down under the strain. Poor fellows! We pity them so much that if any of them wants to step down and out we can find an individual who will take his place.

A Rare Opportunity for those Desiring to Learn Music.

Some time in the near future Miss M. Amelia Hemperly, a very accomplished young lady, will arrive in Bellefonte to take up her residence here for a brief time. Her purpose is to organize a music class, and she is peculiarly well fitted to give instruction in this art, having had superior advantages and a great deal of experience. She is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston and also of the literary College of Wellesley, Mass. During several years she has had charge of the musical department of one of the leading institutions of learning in this State. She will teach the most approved and modern methods of music. Some persons well known in Bellefonte join in praise of her ability, among whom is Miss Minnie E. Hoy, who says that "the people will find her an energetic, intelligent and faithful worker in the musical circles of the town."

—The people of Philipsburg are having a very exciting time about the Public Hall of that place, the Hope Hose Company, the Reliance Hose Company and the Town Council. We don't know what it's all about. We beg to suggest, however, perpetual confinement in the Public Hall of both hose companies, both Editors Bair and Williams and the members of the Council. Then Philipsburg would have a happy family which would excel Barnum's and a Kilkenny Cat exhibition would be the result, the proceeds of which would furnish enough funds to build a new Public Hall, and then peace would reign supreme.

Mr. Joseph T. Swires Seriously Injured.

A truly distressing accident occurred on Wednesday of this week to Mr. Joseph T. Swires, of Milesburg. Mr. Swires was at work in the stone quarry when a mass of rock and dirt came crashing down upon him from overhead. A stone which struck him in the forehead knocked him from the ledge of rock and he fell a distance of twenty-two feet. The fall stunned him and a heavy stone fell on one of his legs, crushing it very severely. Dr. Church was called and gave the injured man all the necessary surgical attention. We understand that he is in a precarious condition.

—The people on the steamer Chattacooche, which arrived in New York harbor on Wednesday, had a hard time of it. During about three days the storm continued with waves fifty feet high. The engines were stopped and the vessel floated with the tide. The people spent the time in praying (That's one good effect of a storm). As a consequence, the vessel went 200 miles out of her way. The sailors are said to have acted bravely and cheered the passengers telling them that no harm would come to them. It proved true and the good ship arrived in safety.

—While Mr. F. C. Richards was in New York City this week he made a careful selection of very beautiful, durable and valuable watches which he has added to his collection here and has now an assortment which cannot be surpassed for attractiveness. Mr. R. has a great deal of taste and experience in these articles, being a very skillful watchmaker and his taste and judgment in all that relates to the watch trade is implicitly relied on. It will pay all interested parties to call at his establishment on High street.

—Mr. Al. G. Field's famous minstrel troupe passed through Bellefonte Saturday morning enroute from Lock Haven where they entertained a large audience last night despite the heavy rain. Mr. Fields remembers all his friends here and desires to be remembered to them, expressing the hope that Bellefonte will soon have an opera house.

—President Harrison announces that Congress has made the 30th of April a general holiday. The Legislature of the State says that any day appointed by the Governor or President as a time for thanksgiving and prayer is a legal holiday. Governor Beaver considers this sufficient and will not issue a separate proclamation.

—The Brigade encampments of the National Guard this season have been fixed as follows: First Brigade near Philadelphia August 3d to 10th; Second Brigade, near Pittsburg, July 8th to 15th; Third Brigade, place undecided, July 15th to 22d.

—It didn't take the new administration long to make Germany back down. She has decided to withdraw her war vessels from Samoa and will be represented there henceforth by only one.

—A bevy of beautiful young ladies from Texas called on President Harrison the other day and the visit was mutually enjoyed by the President and his fair visitors.

—The Soldiers' Orphans bill has finally passed by a vote of 155 to 5. This tells the doom of the syndicate.

—Now they say that Mrs. John Montgomery Ward has given up the idea of again going on the stage.

—Most of the churches now begin their evening services at 7.30 o'clock.

WHAT MR H I BUDD, CORRESPONDING SECRETARY OF THE BURLINGTON COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, HAS TO SAY ABOUT THE MICROBE KILLER.

MOUNT HOLLY, Feb. 17, 1889.

RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER CO.

GENTLEMEN:—Until persuaded by a regular practicing physician, last October, to try William Radam's Microbe Killer, I had experimented with many different kinds of patent medicines, and had placed myself under treatment from several of our most noted physicians, in addition to which I visited many of the consumptive health resorts of the country, all in a vain search for relief from an inherited tendency to pulmonary disease, aggravated by attacks of pneumonia, congestion and inflammation. In sheer despair I tried your remedy, but shall ever bless the doctor who recommended it, for I am now entirely free from the racking cough that made life miserable; am improving in health and rapidly gaining in strength. My friends are so surprised at my improved condition that they almost weary me relating the story of my cure. I have suffered so much and seen so much suffering from this fatal disease that I feel it my duty to advise all to try what I believe has proved my salvation. Sincerely yours,

H I BUDD.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for their approval or rejection at a special election to be held June 18, 1889. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth:

SECTION I. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the Eighteenth Article thereof:

AMENDMENT.

There shall be an additional article to said Constitution to be designated as Article XIX, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor, to be used as a beverage, is hereby prohibited, and any violation of this prohibition shall be a misdemeanor, punishable as shall be provided by law.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor for other purposes than as a beverage may be allowed in such manner only as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly shall, at the first session succeeding the adoption of this article of the Constitution, enact laws with adequate penalties for its enforcement.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their approval or rejection at a special election to be held June 18, 1889. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolutions proposing an amendment to the constitution of the commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the following is proposed as an amendment to the constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

AMENDMENT.

Strike out from section one, of article eight, the four qualifications for voters which reads as follows:

"If twenty-two years of age or upwards he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election," so that the section which reads as follows:

"Every male citizen, twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

First He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year, (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth. If twenty-two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election," shall be amended, so as to read as follows:

Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at the polling place of the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere.

First. He shall have been a resident of the United States at least thirty days.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least thirty days immediately preceding the election. The legislature, at the session thereof next after the adoption of this section, shall, and from time to time thereafter may, enact laws to properly enforce this provision.

Fourth. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for thirty days and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, except at municipal elections, and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people: Provided, That in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvas of their votes in the election district in which they respectively reside.

Fifth. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States or the State, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State or of the high seas, nor while a student of any college or seminary of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or public institution, except the inmates of any home for disabled and indigent soldiers and sailors, who, for the purpose of voting, shall be deemed to reside in the election district where said home is located. Laws shall be made for ascertaining, by proper proofs, the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established."

THE BIG PARADES.

Proposed Change of Routes at the Centennial Celebration.

HIGH PRICES FOR WINDOWS.

From $75 Down Is What It Costs for a Good Place to Look On—The President's Carriage—The Grand Civic Pageant.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The army subcommittee of the centennial celebration committee has met formally to change the route of the great parade so as to make it include the circuit of Union square, as requested by the legislature and the board of aldermen. There is hardly a doubt that the military route will not be changed.

Col. S. E. Blount, of the army, adjutant general of Gen. Schofield, will mass the troops on the down town streets below Wall street, on Greenwich, Church, West Broadway and all the side streets, from river to river. Col. Blount's plan is to march the troops down the broadest side streets to Wall street on the east side, and up through Rector street on the west side. Col. Blount said that he could not make the final arrangements for the massing of the troops until he found out if the Pennsylvania and Ohio troops were coming or not.

The Pennsylvania troops number 8,000 and the Ohioans 3,000; 11,000 troops will make quite a hole in the parade. Col. Blount said that he thought the Pennsylvanians would surely come here; he seemed to be in doubt about the Ohio soldiers. It is pretty well settled that the Charleston Blues will not come. The Blues would not come unless they could escort the president, and that honor has already been accorded to another organization.

Windows Cost Money.

The householders uptown are charging enormous prices for windows. The vacant building on Fifth avenue and Fifteenth street is renting for $75 a window on the first floor, $50 for the second and $25 for the third. Recorder Smyth says he has just paid $75 for a window on Fifth avenue.

The parlors occupied by the army committee are like the lobby of a great theatre. The place is simply jammed with people. It has been found necessary to put the ticket bureau in a separate room from the executive department, so long was the line of applicants. At one time there were at least one hundred people in a line for tickets, and it is expected that every ticket will be sold inside of twenty-four hours.

The Civic Parade.

Gen. Daniel Butterfield has removed the headquarters of the civic parade from the Fifth Avenue hotel to No. 16 East Fourteenth street, where he has secured a whole floor. A large force of clerks has been put to work arranging for the parade and answering communications. All sorts of societies and trades are applying for admission, and Gen. Butterfield says that the parade will include at least 75,000 men. This will make the industrial parade more than one-third larger than the military parade.

One firm sent a request to put in twenty-five milk wagons. It was promptly refused. This is only a sample of the many requests of the kind. All of these advertising schemes will be rigidly excluded.

The arrangement of the divisions will not be finally determined upon until the day before the military parade, as all the representatives of the various societies, trades and industries must be complete before the final assignmen of places can be made.

Gen. Butterfield says that the line of march will be entirely different from that of the military parade.

"We will start," says he, "at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, and march down to Waverley place, to Broadway, to Canal street. We shall not go below that, and we shall not go around Union square."

If the legislature and the board of aldermen do not interfere this programme will be carried out.

President Harrison's Coach.

The carriage which will convey President Harrison to the banquet will have four horses, silver harness, one driver in front and two footmen.

The carriage will contain the president of the United States, Governor Hill, Mayor Grant, of New York, and Hamilton Fish, president of the centennial committee.

The other carriages will contain the ex-presidents of the United States, Rutherford B. Hayes and Grover Cleveland, and the members of the cabinet and the general of the army and admiral of the navy. These will be in open landaus with spans of horses.

Shot by an Insane Man.

ITHACA, April 17.—A man named Ellsworth White shot and fatally wounded Mrs. J. Kellogg, at Lockwood, a small place near this city. Mrs. Kellogg had been visiting White's mother, who is sick, and as she came out of the house White followed her and shot her three times in the back. No cause is assigned, but it is thought White is insane. He was discharged from Auburn prison three months ago, where he served a term for horse stealing. After the shooting he was captured by officers, who placed him in jail at Owego. Mrs. Kellogg is 40 years old. White is 20.

Another Prominent Man Kills Himself.

CHICAGO, April 17.—H. H. Angell, a prominent resident and business man of Oak Park, was found hanging in the barn in the rear of his residence, 111 Maple avenue. Deceased was about 48 years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children, four of them grown. The cause of his suicide is not known, although it is said he left a note for his wife, the contents of which have not yet been made public.

Manufacture of Soft Steel.

TROY, N. Y., April 17.—The Troy Steel and Iron company has completed an experiment in making soft steel, under a process invented by C. W. Bidde. The experiment is pronounced a success. The question of the cost of manufacture is to be determined in order to ascertain if the steel can be made use to compete with the imported article, the same quality of steel being now brought here from Germany.

An Old Sporting Man in Trouble.

MONTREAL, April 17.—Harry Phillips, who was at one time manager for John L. Sullivan, has been arrested charged with aiding Andy Malone to steal jewelry valued at $14,000 from a man named Van Reinholtz, an agent of P. W. Ellis & Co., jewelers, of Toronto. Van Reinholtz, who is also wanted in connection with the matter, is said to be in New York.

No Filibusters at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 17.—Well informed parties here pronounce the stories sent out from this city regarding a proposed filibustering expedition into Lower California pure inventions. No such movement has taken shape or even been talked of seriously.

TELEGRAPH POLES MUST GO.

Mayor Grant Makes War on Overhead Wires in New York Streets.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Shortly after 10:30 o'clock in the morning L. G. Read, in the employ of Lawyer J. M. Bowers of the board of electrical control, handed mayor's secretary Crain a certified copy of Judge Wallace's order dissolving the injunction procured by the Western Union Telegraph company against the mayor and the board of electrical control. Mr. Crain at once sent the order to the department of public works. That department was expecting the order, and in anticipation thereof had a large force of axmen and laborers on hand.

Hundreds of people gathered in the vicinity of Union square and Fourteenth street, in which locality the work of cutting down the poles was inaugurated. The pole cutters were divided into two gangs. One gang attacked the poles on one side of the street while the other gang paid its respects to those on the opposite side. Another corps of axmen were sent along Sixth avenue to clear that thoroughfare of the obnoxious timbers. This party began its work at Twenty-third street and intend to level all poles on the avenue up to Fifty-eighth street.

The Order for Their Removal.

Secretary Crain sent the following order to the commissioner of public works, with a copy of Judge Wallace's decision:

APRIL 16, 1889.

Hon. D. Lowber Smith, Commissioner Public Works:

SIR—You are hereby directed to remove forthwith from the streets and avenues named, poles and wires, also named below, in accordance with chapter 716 of the laws of 1887, to wit:

First—On Sixth avenue from Twenty-third street to Fifty-eighth street, all poles and wires except the wires of the Western Union company upon the Elevated railroad structure.

Second—On Broadway from Fourteenth street to Fifty-fifth street all poles and wires except the fire department line.

Third—On Twenty-third street from Sixth avenue to Broadway all poles and wires.

Fourth—On Twenty-fifth street from Sixth avenue to Broadway all poles and wires.

Fifth—On Forty-second street, from Sixth avenue to Madison avenue, all poles and wires, except a pole on the southeast corner of Fifty-eighth street and Sixth avenue.

And you are further directed to take up the removal of said poles and wires, as described, in the following order: Beginning on Broadway at the intersection of Fourteenth street, and to continue up Broadway to Twenty-third street; then on Twenty-third street from Broadway to Sixth avenue; then on Broadway from Twenty-third street to Twenty-fifth street; then on Twenty-fifth street from Broadway to Sixth avenue; then on Sixth avenue from Twenty-third street to Fifty-eighth street; then on Broadway from Twenty-fifth street to Forty-fifth street; then on Forty-second street from Sixth avenue to Madison avenue, the poles and wires referred to; then on Fifty-eighth street from Sixth avenue to Fourth avenue.

Respectfully,
HUGH J. GRANT,
Mayor and President of the Board of Electrical Control.

That Rumored Telegraph Deal.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Mr. A. B. Chandler, president of the Postal Telegraph Cable company, was seen at the general office of that company in this city when his attention was called to the report that a consolidation of the Postal Telegraph Cable company with the Western Union company is likely to occur soon. Mr. Chandler stated that there is not the slightest foundation in fact for such a statement. When asked if some action had not been lately taken which will remove the active competition hitherto existing and if there is not some identity of interest between the companies, he replied: "There is no identity of interest whatever. The two properties are wholly distinct and just as sharply competitive as ever. Neither has any interest in the other, directly or indirectly, and it is the design of the owners of the Postal property to so continue; otherwise they would have adopted methods designed to injure rather protect the telegraph business as others have done, whose purpose has been to force a sale or lease of their property."

Two Men Will Hang Next Friday.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 17.—Of the six men found guilty of murder by the United States court here last November and sentenced to hang April 19, only two will be executed on the day set. William Woods was pardoned by the president, Henry and George Brashears were respited until June 28 and Steve Russell's sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life. The two who suffer the death penalty next Friday are Malachi Allen and Joe Mills. The former is a young Chickasaw negro who killed two men while at church in the Chickasaw nation one Sunday in the fall of 1887, and Mills killed John Windy in the Chickasaw nation in December, 1887. Both men have joined the Catholic church and say they are prepared to die.

Train Robber Bill Ryan Released.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 17.—Bill Ryan, the Missouri train robber and associate of Jesse James, has been released from the penitentiary. He was sentence for twenty-five years for complicity in the Glendale train robbery on the Chicago and Alton road in October, 1879, but Governor Moorehouse, a short time before his retirement from his office, commuted the sentence to ten and one-half years.

Killed His Wife with a Poker.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 17.—In Perry township, fifteen miles north of here, John Barrett and his wife, aged respectively 74 and 70, quarreled over a trifling matter. He seized a poker and beat her over the head, fatally injuring her. Barrett was arrested. He says he does not remember of having committed the deed.

A Big Fire in Muir, Mich.

MUIR, Mich., April 17.—A fire which originated in the Dakin hotel came pretty near wiping out this town. As it was some thirty-five residences and business places were destroyed. The town has only 1,600 inhabitants and can't afford a fire department, so little could be done to control the flames. Many of the contents of the buildings burned were saved, however, and the streets for blocks in every direction are lined with household goods and store stock. Ionia was wired for help, but assistance did not arrive until too late. The loss cannot yet be estimated.

READY TO TRAVEL.

Thousands of Boomers Waiting for the Signal to Move.

AN ECCENTRIC MISSOURIAN

He Wears Tri-Colored Pantaloons, Carries An Old Ball and Patch Rifle and Means Business—Land Sharks on Hand—Capt. Cooper.

KANSAS CITY, April 17.—Capt. George Cooper, who, with Capt. Couch, has inherited the leadership vacated by the late original boomer, Payne, has arrived in Kansas City to arrange for the prompt movement of the boomer trains for Oklahoma. Cooper says that he has forty cars at Emporia, where his branch of the Payne Oklahoma colony is rallying. He is inclined to be secretive about his plans.

The increasing rush of people bound for Oklahoma is very apparent here. Trains from all points are crowded with would be settlers, and the Santa Fe road is hastening forward all its available rolling stock for use on its Indian territory branch.

At the head of one party of Missourians at the depot was a man who would have been considered insane had it not been for the trust and obedience he exacted from his rather hardy followers. He was tall and lank, and dressed in rough worn clothing. He had a thin, shrewd face and a scrubby chin whisker.

Over his pantaloons, and stuffed in at the top of his big jack boots, he wore a sensational pair of overalls made of bunting, stamped with small American flags. He carried a long, brown rifle, of the ancient but accurate ball and patch pattern, and around his waist were strapped a brace of cannon calibered navies and a large knife.

Daniel Gentis and His Party.

The leader's name was Daniel Gentis, and his little company had been organized in Davis county, Mo. Gentis visited Oklahoma a short time ago, and returned last week to escort his friends. The company was most thoroughly armed, and will certainly frighten the timid and provoke the bold. When asked if he was looking for trouble in Oklahoma, Gentis said:

"I ain't lost any, but I've got somebody else's property in that line."

Gentis explained his tri-color pantaloons by saying:

"There used to be 'red legs' on this border, and now I'm going to show some 'red-white-and-blue legs.'"

He and his party are bound for some secretly located spot west of Lisbon. They are but samples of the character of persons who will join in the rush.

Land Sharks on Hand.

The land sharks are on hand. One concern, with flaming banners, is selling town lots in Oklahoma City, Tex., a spot on the map of the Panhandle of Texas, touching the western tip of Oklahoma. These so called lots are sold for $2 a piece, with an additional charge of $1 for recording the deed.

Next door another crowd is trying to dispose of lots in the promising city of New Oklahoma, said to be twenty miles south of the other, and pretending to be on a proposed line of railway. The touters of these two institutions stand at their doors and roundly denounce each other as frauds and impostors. Both manage to ply a good trade.

Meanwhile the most rigid rules of exclusion are being maintained in the territory. Yet there are rumors rife that certain favored ones have already been permitted to enter the tract and are hidden near Guthrie and other points of settlement. This will bear close investigation.

Capt. Cooper's Experiences.

Capt. Cooper says emphatically that he does not propose to be left. In reply to questions about his history he said: "I first went into Oklahoma in 1866, and have ever since longed to settle there. I have made several trips there with Capt. Payne, but as many times was driven out by the soldiers. In addition to being a pioneer in the Oklahoma movement, I have been similarly connected with the opening of other sections of the west."

The captain is in the prime of life and is a man of fine physique, being six feet two inches tall, straight as an arrow and weighing over 200 pounds. The Emporia Oklahoma colony, of which Capt. Cooper is at the head, is an old organization and numbers about 20,000, who intend to locate around Guthrie Station.

They Can Start April 19.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 17.—Gen. Merritt has issued an order to the troops to allow the boomers to cross the Kansas line into the Cherokee strip, beginning Friday, April 19. This will give them three days in which to drive their teams across the strip into Oklahoma.

In addition to the seventeen companies now in Oklahoma the troops at Fort Elliott, Tex., will be ordered to Oklahoma, and it is thought that by the 22d at least twenty-five companies will be in the territory.

CALDWELL, Kan., April 16.—Capt. Woodson's scouts have brought a large number of boomers up from Oklahoma.

Preparing for the Rush.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 17.—United States Marshal Jones has arrived to prepare for the rush Monday. He has appointed nine deputies, who will be stationed throughout Oklahoma. He says that he will appoint about fifty more. Two or more will guard every passing train through the country.

A party of government surveyors passed through today. They are under instructions to prepare for four months' service in assisting settlers in locating claims.

Suicide of President Hatch.

ST. PAUL, April 17.—The suicide of Charles F. Hatch in Minneapolis yesterday was a great surprise to his many friends in this city. Mr. Hatch was quite well known to a large majority of the old railroad men in the northwest. Previous to 1883 he was successively general superintendent of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad, general manager of the Minneapolis and St. Louis and superintendent of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha road. Latterly he became president of the Wisconsin, Minnesota and Pacific railroad at Minneapolis.

A Chicago Police Captain Reinstated.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Mayor Roche has issued an order reinstating Capt. Michael Schaack on the police force, from which he was suspended about two months ago. The case of ex-Inspector John Bonfield, who was suspended from duty at the same time with Schaack, is under consideration by the mayor and the result will soon be known. Capt. Schaack was assigned to duty as captain at the Chicago Avenue station, his old post. His reinstatement carries with it full pay from the date of his suspension.

IMPORTANT FACTS AND AIRY NOTHINGS FROM THE CLASSIC TOWN OF SNOW SHOE.

A court martial for Armes,
The Washington crank,
Who the Nation alarms
That a man of his rank—
Would commit an assault on our hero
Who many long years ago
Lost one leg in the service,
Makes Armes a second Guiteau.
And now a court martial
With its terrors and woes
Is in store for the villian
Who pulled Beaver's nose.

This way it goes to get married and this way it goes to keep house. So says Mr. J. B. Marsteller, who is busily engaged in moving his furniture into the handsome residence recently vacated by Dr. Thompson.

The appointment of James I. Yarnell as postmaster at Snow Shoe last week leaves O. M. Sheets without an occupation. He is a butcher by trade and thoroughly understands the business, and will very likely get a fair share of the trade at his new shop in Boak's building.

Doctor J. W. Neff has rented the house formerly used as an office by the Berwind-White Coal Company and intends to go to housekeeping. Probably the young Doctor has matrimonial intentions.

W. M. Leathers is building a new butcher shop adjoining his residence.

Asbury Cheesman failed to obtain the room he desired in Altoona, and has concluded to locate in Milesburg, Pa. He has rented a room in Harshberger's building opposite Miles & Son's store, where he will put in a stock of books, stationery and fancy goods. Mr. Cheesman is a watchmaker by trade and any one in Milesburg who wishes repairing done will do well to give him a call.

John B. Leathers, of Mount Eagle, transacted business in Snow Shoe this week.

Doctor Young has rented from William Grauer the house on Fourth street formerly occupied by W. M. Leathers. His mother has moved here from Punxsutawney and will keep house for him.

The sneak thief who stole W. B. Master's whip from his carriage last Sunday night had better return it or he will certainly wish he had some time.

That Philipsburg young man who was so contemptibly mean as to beat a poor Snow Shoe girl out of her gold watch, which she worked hard twenty-five weeks to pay for, has not as yet returned the watch nor paid the girl one cent. The names of both parties, with full particulars, will positively be published next week if the watch is not returned or paid for. We consider him a good subject for White Caps.

—The moon was brilliantly bright on Monday night. "And thou serenest moon, that with such lovely face, dost look upon the earth asleep in night's embrace; tell me, in all thy round hast thou not seen some spot where mortal man may find a happier lot?" Behind a cloud the moon didn't retire in woe because there was no cloud behind which to go.

Judge George C. Wing

of Auburn, one of Maine's prominent lawyers, and for several years the Chairman of the Republican State Committee, was troubled with boils on the back of his neck in their worst form, resembling carbuncles. Three bottles of Brown's Sarsaparilla completely cured him, and now Judge Wing speaks in the highest praise of Brown's Sarsaparilla.

The long sought for remedy for spring lassitude has been found. Entirely free from the noxious alcohols, it is compounded of these ingredients which extended medical experience has proven to be the most potential in their effect upon the kidneys, liver and blood, and, unlike the common "spring medicines" with which the market is flooded, its effect is not only immediate, but enduring. No stronger evidence to this effect could be offered than the voluntary testimony to its virtues of men of the character and position of those whose names appear with their willing permission through all our works. Men, women and children alike can take it with safety and for ladies who are peculiarly susceptible to that tired feeling at this season of the year we advise the use of

Oh! Oh!

Emanuel Baughman, a Somerset county weather fiend, predicts one more snow of three or four inches in May, and heavy hard frost in the first and second weeks of June. He claims to have predicted the snow of April 6. His prophetic view is based on the fogs of the first three days of March, which were low, dark, settling on the north sides of the mountains. To crown all there is to be a wet summer. In the past five years this sign has not failed him in the accuracy of his prediction.

The Snyder sisters have gone to New York and will return with a large line of millinery. Grand opening Saturday, April 20. We invite citizens of Bellefonte and Centre county to call and look at goods.

Do You Want a Fence?

READ THIS—And give it a moment's reflection. Think of a fence that is at once handsome and practically indestructible.

AND YET—Is cheaper than a wooden fence and twice as cheap as the cheapest iron fence.

THE ONLY—Fence that protects and ornaments a lawn without concealing it.

OUR fence is very much cheaper than any other that can approach it in merits.

WHY, we will sell you our handsome strong steel picket fence for as little as it costs, in most towns, to paint a wooden fence.

THIS beautiful and handsome fence can already be seen at Mr. Ellis Orvis or Mr. Edwin F. Garmann's, on Linn St., Bellefonte.

PRICES and particulars can be learned of A. B. Lucas at Erhard & Sunday's store, on High street, until further notice.

I will be in Bellefonte the first week of every month until further notice.

WHO STOLE THE LEVEL ?

A Turnpike Company in Trouble, Can a Man Steal his own Property ?

A FIELD DAY IN JUSTICE SAMUEL FOSTER'S COURT—THE SWARTS VS. LONG SUIT TERMINATED. WHAT THE WITNESS SAID, ETC.

Last Monday Justice Foster held court in the arbitration room in the Court House.

The first case before his Honor was the Commonwealth vs. the Managers of the Kishacoquillas Turnpike Company who were prosecuted for not keeping said pike in repair. After hearing many witnesses the managers were bound over in the sum of $300 to appear at our next court. The turnpike case was concluded at 11.15 a. m. and the Swarts case against John M. Long was taken up.

It appears that in 1882 or '83 Conrad Long repaired his flouring mill at Howard, and that a Mr. Moore, of Lockport; N. Y., superintended the repairs and whilst so doing lost a spirit level. There were several carpenters and millwrights working at the mill, among whom was B. P. Swartz, the plaintiff in this case. Various rumors have been in circulation from that time until recently as to who stole the level. A few weeks ago, John M. Long swore out a search warrant to search the premises of Mr. Swarts, to find the aforesaid level and also at the same time another warrant for Swarts' arrest was gotten by Mr. Long. The constable found the level in Mr. Swarts' tool chest, gave it to Justice Adams, who in turn gave it to John M. Long. In the meantime Swarts had entered bail for his appearance at court. After Long received the level he had Justice Adams dismiss the case against Swarts. Mr. Swarts demanded the level of Long and Long refused to give it to him. Swarts brings this suit of trover and conversion against Long, making a claim of $4.50 for the level.

Col. Spangler and W. F. Reeder appeared as counsel for plaintiff whilst our good looking friend, Col. Clement Dale, counseled the defendant.

Mr Reeder opened the case with his usual elegant rhetoric, after which Mr. B P Swarts, the plaintiff, was called and sworn, who said he had resided in Howard township for the last 14 years, that in 1882 he purchased some tools of John M Long including a spirit level for which he agreed to pay $7. That he had used level on Crider's building in presence of John M Long and various other places which witness named. He said two years ago on Sunday, John M Long came to my house and asked me for the balance I owed him on tools I purchased from him, but I did not pay him because I did not get one of the planes Long sold me, he having disposed of it to Charles Sayers, Mr. Swarts then produced two of the planes and a chisel which he had purchased from Long. He said I paid Long $4.50 for the level. I demanded the level of Long in Lucas store and he refused to give it up. Court then adjourned until 10 o'clock sharp.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Upon a ctitical cross examination by Col. Dale, nothing new was developed in Swarts evidence, constable Neff, 'Esq. Adams, H T Lucas, Harvey Pifer, Mrs. Swarts and others were called and testified in corroberation of the main facts of the foregoing testimony. Justice Adams testified that at the request of J M Long he dismissed the suit against Swarts for the want of evidence. This was after the level had been taken possession of. He said I issued the search warrant as I considered it the shortest way to get the level.

Col. Dale opened the side for the defense in his usual calm, logical and eloquent style, claiming that Swarts stole the level from Long's mill.

Deposition of Mr. Moore, of N. Y, was read describing level lost by him in 1882 or 83 and its value and where lost.

John M Long was sworn; who said that in 1885 he lived with his father at Howard, Pa. That John Moore was superintending the changing of father's mill, and Swarts, Sayres and others were working under Moore's directions. Long then described the level used by Moore, and then said: I never agreed to sell, and never did sell Mr. Swarts that spirit level or any other one. I sold Charles Sayers a plane for twenty-five cents. I never sold Swarts any planes or chisels, but I did sell him a dog. Mr. Moore sent me a power of attorney to search for that level, and after getting it I sent it to him by express. Witness then produced a letter from Moore showing he had received the level. Upon Mr. Long's cross-examination he did not vary much from his evidence in chief.

Mr. Wm. Mann, of Curtin township, Charles Sayres, of Marion township, Jas. Hays of Howard were called, but knew nothing about the main features in the case, but testified to having seen the level in the possession of Swarts.

Col. Dale addressed the court and showed his honor that any other verdict than for the defendant, would be against law, the evidence in the case and common sense.

Col. Spangler made one of those eloquent pleas for which he is noted, informing the court that no other verdict could be thought of, but one for the plaintiff.

THE VERDICT.

Justice Foster held the case under advisement until the next day when he gave a judgment of $4 and costs of suit in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant John M. Long.

Thus ends one of those remarkable controversaries that gossips create and spread all over this county.

—The meeting held by the Board of Directors of the Y M C A on Monday evening was quite fully attended. After the lunch, which was an excellent one, several details regarding the limitation of priveliges to the gymnasium, game room and other features of the Association were arranged. Young men of fifteen years or older may be associate members; the privileges of the two reading rooms are of course open to all, there being a separate room for the smaller boys. The reception which the Reception committee have in charge will be held on Thursday evening of this week. The festivals will begin next Monday, the Presbyterian congregation having charge of the affair the first evening. On Tuesday evening the Reformed and Lutheran ladies will share the honors of the event. On the following Monday evening, the Methodist ladies will entertain and on the second Tuesday evening the Episcopal, Disciple Friends and members of the Y W C T U will see that the affair closes a grand success.

Ice for Next Summer.

It begins to look as though ice would be a real luxury and an expensive one at that the coming summer. The Ice Trade Journal for April says: 'The ice crop is largely short of the average of former years, and in most places of inferior quality, thus making higher prices inevitable and subject to variation as the season progresses.' Norristown gathered none and has only 500 tons over from last year and will need to import 10,000 tons. Reading has to buy 60,000 tons and the dealers have already advanced their prices 40 per cent. Chester has about 1,000 tons and will have to buy 8,000 to 10,000 tons. Pottstown is short 8,000 tons. The following are the present prices made to the largest consumers: Philadelphia per hundred, 30 cents, Altoona, per hundred, 50 cents; Chester, per hundred, 50 cents; Norristown, per hundred, 35 cents." The supply in Bellefonte is about as usual, though the demand elsewhere will likely make the price comparatively higher.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Peculiar Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar curative powers. No To Itself other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other instead. It is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Buffalo Man Cuts His Wife's Throat and His Own.

THE RESULT OF JEALOUSY.

BUFFALO, April 17.—Another tragedy, even more terrible in its bloody atrocity than the Kemmeler murder, has occurred in the Barker block on Seneca street. About 7:30 o'clock Thomas Dominguez cut his wife's throat with a razor and then cut his own. Both died almost instantly.

The woman's body was found at the foot of the back stairs leading to a little court in the rear of the block.

A great gash across her throat ran almost from ear to ear. The jugular vein was cut clear through and the head almost severed from the body.

A slash from the weapon that had cut her throat had made a deep cut from her right temple downward across the cheek bone. Another slash was on her chin.

The thumb knuckle and the palm of her right hand were cut deeply and the thumb of her left hand was cut almost through, indicating that she had grasped her assailant's weapon, and that it had been drawn through her clutch.

A Terrible Fight for Life.

There had been a desperate fight for life, and she had fought until she died. Her face was an expression of horror firmly set in death.

The floor of the kitchen of the apartments occupied by the family was almost covered with blood. Over in a corner to the right of the stove was a pool of it that somebody had unsuccessfully tried to clean away.

Drops and blotches of blood in a profusion led to a larger room, and here the body of the chief actor in the frightful scene was found.

It lay prone upon the face, which was buried in a pool of blood, and in the throat was a deep gash. Beneath the window lay a keen edged razor with a broken handle.

The man was dressed in only his shirt, pantaloons and boots. He was heavily built and powerful.

An Awful Sight for Baby Eyes.

On the bed in the bedroom sat two little children, Carmen and Dulzetta, aged 6 and 4 years, the elder of whom had witnessed the terrible crime.

She relates that her parents quarreled, and that her father attacked her mother with the razor. After the mother had been cut she made a dash for the door, her husband after her, and fell headlong down the stairs.

The motive for the double tragedy was jealousy. Dominguez was a Spaniard and a musician, but has not worked for a year. He has been sick and was at the hospital, and returned home only a few days ago. His wife was unfaithful.

His wife was French. When Dominguez came home from the hospital Saturday he found a shoemaker named Hull, who had boarded with the family, in a room with his wife.

Dominquez left a long letter addressed to a friend, in which he relates this and also his other troubles, and says he has determined on suicide.

He would like to kill his wife, he says in it, but then his little children would be alone. He concludes by saying he pardons his wife for what she has done because she was very good to him before and to the little ones.

It is evident from this that the murder was an after thought and resulted from the quarrel.

The Virginia Forest Fires.

DANVILLE, Va., April 17.—The latest advices received from Patrick county respecting the forest fire which swept over that portion of Virginia state that at least fifty farmers suffered from the fire. In many cases dwellings, barns and stables were consumed. The region is remote from a telegraph station and full particulars will be difficult to obtain. Dr. Abe Robertson, it is understood, was burned to death.

BRIEF MENTION.

These deaths are among those reported: Mrs. Anna M. Lyman, wife of Bishop Lyman, of North Carolina, at Raleigh; James H. Gardiner, discoverer in 1863 of "Gardiner's comet" and well known as an astronomer, at Newburg, N. Y., age 48; Henry Dithmar, United States consul at Breslau, age 75; the Countess of Redern, at Buda Pesth, age 78; John D. Churchill, capitalist, at Chicago, age 73.

The Conshohocken Worsted Mills company has made an assignment.

These cases are before the Pennsylvania board of pardons: George Clark, of Greene county, under sentence of death, June 25, for the murder of William McCausland; Thomas J. Cole, under sentence of death for the murder of Ward McAllister, of Philadelphia; James H. Jacobs, under sentence of death, April 24, for murder in Lancaster; Millard F. Hildebrand, of Lancaster, convicted of voluntary manslaughter; Samuel Johnson, Delaware county, whose execution is fixed for the 4th of June; William Keller, of Philadelphia, under sentence of death; Edward Coyle, Allegheny, murder in the second degree; John Kelly, Northumberland, voluntary manslaughter, and Oscar Hugo Webber, Philadelphia, under sentence of death.

Mrs. Hannah Battersley, said to be the largest woman in the world, died Monday night near Philadelphia. It is said that she weighed 800 pounds.

James E. Collier, of Port Jervis, N. Y., has recovered $7,000 damages of the National bank of that place for false imprisonment and defamation of character. He was arrested on complaint of that institution charged with forgery.

Lieut. Towne, of Lowell, Mass., in charge of the Salvation Army at Newburg, N. Y., fell through a trap door and broke her neck.

James Blanchard, 17 years old and a member of one of the best families of Rockland county, N. Y., has been sent to an insane asylum. He acted strangely and recently cut the throat of a valuable horse "for fun." The cause of his malady was dyspepsia.

Charles Harrison, an ex-soldier, who killed his wife a year ago, has been sentenced to Clinton prison for life at Plattsburg, N. Y.

John Albert Bright, son of the late John Bright, has been elected to succeed his father in the English parliament.

The body of Miss Susanne Fairweather, formerly a Philadelphia school teacher, was found in a creek near Columbus, Ga., from which city the young woman disappeared mysteriously last November.

A PHYSICIAN'S LETTER.

"GENTLEMEN:—I am glad to write you my opinion of 'IVORY SOAP,' and have long intended doing so.

It has become a household necessity with us.

If there is an unusually obstinate spot on the clothing, on the woodwork, an ink daub on my desk cover; a polish required for the doorplate or surgical instruments, a cleansing and harmless preparation for the teeth, and a very superior toilet soap needed, we resort to 'IVORY.'

We buy it by the box, remove the wrappers, and allow the soap to thoroughly ripen.

Now, if I had saved fifteen wrappers I would ask you to send my little girl a drawing book in accordance with your offer in the Youth's Companion; but as it is, we all feel under obligation to you for manufacturing 'IVORY SOAP' for us.

We do not hesitate to recommend it unqualifiedly to all our friends. It is one of the few articles that will do what it is advertised to do."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Putting up a Soda Fountain.

If anyone had been around Lemont early on Thursday morning of last week (and of course quite a number of people were around that pleasant town) he might have seen our friend, C A Everett, passing uneasily up and down the depot platform. Subsequent events proved that Mr. E was expecting Dr. C W Keplinger of Bellefonte, on the early morning train to assist in putting up and charging his new soda fountain. Mr. Keplinger spent the day in Lemont and pronounced the fountain a complete success. It is one of J W Tuft's of Boston which are so celebrated that they need no praise.

Mr. Everett treated all his friends to a glass of soda the first day and all were unanimous in pronouncing it the finest they had ever seen or drank.

Mr. E now stands ready to deal out to customers first class Arctic soda at only 5 cents a glass. We wish him all success and would advise all who wish a delicious cool drink of soda to call at Mr. C A Everett's drug store at Lemont.

When Mr. Long goes into the lumber yard we would advise him to bolt the cellar door. Brandy and gin seem too great a temptation to some of the boys, but remember "Honesty is the best policy."

ST. JACOBS OIL

TRADE MARK

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

UTTERLY HELPLESS AND CURED.

PROMPTLY. PERMANENTLY.

The "St. Louis Post-Dispatch" says: "Mrs. Phebe Rice, 1208 Madison Street, states that for the past seven years she had been a sufferer from acute inflammatory rheumatism, which had affected the muscles of the hands, contracting them so badly she could not comb her hair, hold a needle or pick up a pin, and rendered the lower limbs so helpless she required crutches to move about. During ten months she was obliged to carry the right hand in a sling.

"A single application of St. Jacobs Oil, she said, made her a firm believer in its virtues, as the effect was instantaneous and she was greatly benefited. The continued use of it brought her to the happy condition in which the reporter saw her, with the free use of her limbs and in perfect health—cured. She can now run up and down stairs, she said, and her hands were as useful in every respect as they had been before she began to suffer, seven years ago."

THE PRICE.—The best always first and cheapest. The best is the promptest, safest, surest, most permanent. The benefits are beyond price. St. Jacobs Oil is the best.

ROBERT COOKE, JR., Sheriff.

Sheriff's Office, Bellefonte, Pa., March 28th, 1889.

A DEAD BULL.

THE ANIMAL THAT, WHILE ALIVE, HELD A CROWD OF A THOUSAND AT BAY THURSDAY MORNING.

At 10 o'clock on Thursday an unusual commotion was caused on High street. The cause was the presence of a huge and very vicious bull which had been purchased by Mr. William Hoffman from Mr. Whitmer and was being driven to the slaughter house. The animal became enraged at the crowd and stood in the street ready to rush at whoever should come near him. When he did make a rush the crowd of about a thousand, which had assembled, cheered the animal. Had he not been impeded by a log and chain fastened in front of him he would have been able to move more rapidly, but the inconvenience of this heavy weight caused him to soon give up the chase, and the convenient proximity of big trees enabled the pursuers to dodge behind their friendly shelter.

After several ineffectual charges on the crowd, which scattered each time in wild disorder, Mr. Bull began to move leisurely up High street, followed at convenient distance by the crowd. When the bull was at the corner of Spring and High streets we trembled. What if he should make a rush into Col. Wilkinson's china shop? We have heard of a bull in a china shop, but he didn't, and we breathed freer. Some suggested to lasso him, others to shoot, but neither lasso nor firearm were near. Only once did he make a rush at anyone who was not on his guard, and that was on Spring street at Mr. Lawrence Cooney, who would likely have been gored had not the shouting of the crowd distracted the attention of his Bullship.

George Bush stationed himself in his yard and threatened the animal with the contents of a revolver should he venture on the premises, but the bull in this instance considered discretion the better part of valor, and was content to stand off at a distance and make faces at George.

James Schofield dashed across the street and threatened to fit a set of gold mounted harness on the bull, which caused the animal to make a dash into Bishop street, followed by the excited assembly. A few rods up the street George Bush stood in the way with a revolver. But the bull this time attempted to visit vengeance on George and made a rush for him. George dodged behind a tree and as he did so fired two shots from his revolver. When the smoke cleared away George and the bull were both alive and apparently unhurt.

Meanwhile a young man named Reuben Butler had procured a gun. The bull stood angrily in the middle of the street planning his next charge. The opportunity was favorable. Mr. Butler must be a crack shot. He took steady aim while the crowd held its separate and individual breaths; there was a report, a cloud of dust and the bull fell in its tracks, never moving except in a convulsive shudder.

Then the brave crowd moved in on the bull and a took close inspection while his life blood crimsoned the dust. They admired his proportions, commented on his spirit and speculated on what should be done with him.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F J Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucus surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F J Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Farmers are busy turning the soil.

Misses Carrie and Rachel Shultz, of Curtins Works, were visiting with their sister, Mrs Oliver Hoy, but have returned home. Come again, ladies.

Mr. Samuel Wirts is looking around for a bird; he says he has the cage. That's right, Sam.

Miss Cora Womer and sister have returned to their former home to commence their summer's work. We welcome you.

One of our young men still wends his way towards the factory. Is it George or Blanche you want? See, Grant.

Rev. Eminhizer intends having Communion at the U. B. church next Sabbath. Let there be a good turnout.

Miss Ella McEntyre, of Fillmore, spent a few days with us. Call again, Ella.

Mr. R. C. Palmer seems to be living very comfortably in his new house and will be pleased to entertain his friends.

Mr. D. O. Emerick of Centre Hall, occasionally calls at the home of Mr Bathgate. We don't know whether it is to see Mr. or Miss, but rather think it is the latter. Look out for hounds; that is what Newt says.

Mr. D. P. Solt of Lemont, still continues his calls at Mr. Snyder's. It's no use; the farm's sold.

Mr. George Confer, of Mt. Eagle, spent a few days with his intended father-in-law, Mr. Ira Lyle. At least, that's what they say. George knows it won't do to be single.

The people here are very sorry that Rev. Groh has departed. It seems to have been unavoidable, however, and the hope is that he may have a suitable successor.

Dr. L. M. Houser, of Pennsylvania Furnace, is visiting his home this week.

Mr. George Cronemiller has traded horses; a very excellent trade, George.

Mr. Irvin Wirts departed for Snow Shoe to visit his sister.

A Delightful Social Event on Friday Evening.

On Friday evening about thirty congenial and pleasant young people—the married and the single being intermingled in due proportion—repaired to the residence of Mr. Mitchell Lieb. Of course, there was a pre-arrangement in this gathering, but it was a complete surprise to Mr. Lieb and his family. The pleasant event changed that spot at least into one of the most delightful in Bellefonte. It was unnecessary to remind our readers that the elements were weeping out doors at a very profuse rate, but the highest spirits prevailed inside.

One impressive young gentleman who had been engaged to call for his lady at a certain hour, called and found that she had already gone. Not at all disconcerted, he proceeded thither alone and found that they were having a rarely pleasant time despite his absence. A most excellent supper was served. Games were indulged in and occupied the hours that passed away so rapidly. Mr. and Mrs. Lieb made everyone feel at home and the time for departure arrived all too quickly.

Prohibition Club.

Persons favoring the Prohibition Amendment met in Lucas' Hall, Howard, on last Tuesday night. The meeting was called to order by H. T. Lucas, committeeman, and the following permanent officers elected:

President, T. A. Long; Vice Presidents, John Trafford and Reuben Pletcher; Secretary, Wm R. Leathers; Assistant secretary, Miss Annie B. Lucas; Treasurer, Mrs. Geo. King.

Rev. Findley Riddle, now located at Danville, addressed the meeting. Fifty persons present signed the roll and it is expected more will follow. It was the first meeting and will hereafter meet in the same place every Tuesday night.

A committee comprising Reverends King and Thompson and Newlin Hall was appointed to prepare a programme for future meetings of the club which is for the districts of Howard borough and township.

After a few remarks from the President the club adjourned.

UNABLE TO TELL.

Yes, that was so. For years I suffered severely with scrofula; sores broke out all over my body, and I am unable to tell one half that I suffered. I was not able to obtain relief untill I used Sulphur Bitters, which completely cured me.—C. B. DALE, 17 Allston street, Boston.

—The individual who sends items from Tyrone to the Altoona Times indulges in the following bright sentence which we quote: "People of Tyrone will soon come to the conclusion that the Prohibition question does not overshadow all other evils, by a long shot." Of course, sir, a question does not overshadow an evil—that would be impossible. But perhaps you meant to say that the evil of intemperance does not overshadow other evils. However it would be as difficult for you to prove that statement as it is impossible for you to say just what you mean.

A Royal Yachtman and a Royal Horseman.

During a recent visit to Bermuda our fellow townsman, Mr. W. R. Teller, was treated with distinguished consideration. He was elected an honorary member of the Royal Yacht Club of Bermuda, one of the oldest and most exclusive yacht clubs in the world. The Admiral of the fleet then in those waters tendered Mr. Teller the use of a yacht in which he made some charming trips, visiting the numerous islands about Bermuda. Senator Peale, of Lock Haven, who was with Mr. Teller, came home looking well, but from what information we are able to secure the Senator is a poor sailor. He was not elected a member of the Royal Yacht Club, but his well known love for horses having been preceeded him to the islands, the Chief Justice of Bermuda at once gave him the freedom of the island, and every morning sent to his hotel a donkey and cart. The Senator took much pleasure, when in Bellefonte on Thursday, in showing a photograph of himself, the donkey and cart, which he had taken the first time he used the Chief Justice's equipage. Bellefonte and Lock Haven should be proud of the manner in which these gentlemen conducted themselves while away and the people of Bermuda reflected great honor on themselves in their treatment of Mariner Teller and Horseman Peale.

A DRUGGIST SAYS.

Marvin C. Brown, Druggist, Meredith Village, N. H., says: I have sold your Sulphur Bitters for years, and, contrary to most medicines, I never sold a bottle to any one who said it did not help them. They cured me of those terrible sick headaches when every other remedy failed.

The Manufacture of Cider.

There are people who seem to imagine that the adoption of the Prohibitory Amendment will in some way interfere with their manufacture and sale of cider. Even if it should we would be strongly in favor of the Amendment, as the great good to be accomplished by the banishment of all intoxicating drinks would more than compensate for the inconvenience or financial loss occasioned by cessation of cider manufacture.

But the question will not affect the cider interests at all. It cannot possibly change the operations of the present law in that regard. Even now the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, for sale, cannot be carried on without a license. No farmer has a right now to distill or brew liquors and sell them. But cider in its freshness and purity is considered a commodity which does not come under the prohibition of the law, and the manufacture and sale of it are not regulated by licence.

Even now, we suppose, no farmer would have the right to sell cider, which was known to be old and strong, as a beverage. The fact of its possessing intoxicating properties prohibits that at present unless he procures from the Court the right to do so. The present laws relate to intoxicating liquors as a beverage and Prohibition will relate to the same—no more and no less.

So, in the event of the adoption of prohibition the orchards can be left standing, we will still enjoy our drink of sweet cider; in winter time it will continue to impart a rich flavor to our mince pies. And it will still be converted into cider vinegar.

—Mr. Beezer, the butcher on Allegheny street, is making some important changes and improvements in his meat market. He has put in a handsome new refrigerator which has separate compartments—one for smaller pieces of meat and one for the larger pieces. It is quite an elegant affair. The refrigerator is where the business office used to be and the business office has taken the place formerly occupied by the old refrigerator.

—All the papers are now printing the wonderful information that there are 89,369 persons in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Perhaps when Will Reasner hears of this fact he wont feel so mighty important—just as if he owned all of the 7,581 miles of track.

"MATTHEW TWAIN'S" HOUSE CLEANING.

How He Helped His Wife with that Laborious Work and finds that He Lost $148.30 by the Operation.

AN ARTICLE SPARKLING WITH GENUINE HUMOR.

Spring is the worst season of the four, to the head of the family.

It is the dawning of at least one week of solid misery to the male head of the house and the same period of delight to his other half.

About the second fine day of the early spring your loving spouse will meet you at the door, with an unusual smile of sweet content and you find awaiting you, within, a delicious dinner gotten up on purpose to please your appetite.

During the repast your wife will further win your admiration and love by stating that she has made up her mind to trim up her last Spring's bonnet and not buy a new one this season. Then after she has won your regard for her unselfish ideas she suggests that as you need a new Spring suit we use a little economy and clean the house ourselves, thus saving the expense connected with hiring help. To this you readily consent, and as soon as the meal is finished you repair to the parlor to begin operations, your wife following you closely with a broken cup to hold the tacks and a screw driver without a handle with which to draw them from the carpet.

Your love of economy, however, is not at all affected by the prospect before you, and as you stoop she lets the cup fall and it strikes you on the left ear. This is annoying, but you laugh it off and get down with one knee on the floor and get your hold on the first tack.

You pull gently at first, but as the effort is in vain, you use a little more muscle, when the head flies off the miserable thing, your hold slips and you come to a stop with your head against the stove, and your hand resting on the broken tack.

This is exasperating and when your wife suggests that you try some other spot where you will not injure the stove you remark that you will do nothing of the kind—that tack must come out. Then you move cautiously around the object of your labor and try again. This time you clinch the tack. Then you become excited and seeing that your wife has left the room, you grab the carpet with both hands and give an angry yank, which tears the carpet loose, but you skin your knuckles on the tack.

Your wife coming in at this time, suggests again that you try another spot; so you act on her suggestion and crawl under the piano and try the corner. There you find the carpet four double, and each thickness fastened with a small nail.

Being somewhat cramped for elbow room, you hump your back and push until you strain the last possible muscle in your body; but as your wife is resting on the edge of the piano it fails to move, as she is not aware of what you are doing and supposes you are swearing at the carpet.

She moves away, however, just as you are making your last effort, and the piano moves—so rapidly and suddenly that everything on it comes falling down on the back of your head.

The oil painting and the Lord's Prayer both strike you at the same time and almost on the same spot.

This is too much for your overtaxed nerves and you forget that you united with the church and the words you say of that Lord's Prayer must be repented of.

Your wife makes you feel some better when she informs you that if you cannot do that little bit of work without swearing and breaking everything in the house you should just crawl out and let her under the piano—she can do the work better herself.

This you absolutely refuse to do. As you have had all the misery, you desire all the glory.

The other tacks come out without much effort and you finally get through with the tack pulling, and you find the next thing in order is to get the carpet from under the stove.

So you take hold of the front part of the heater, and when you lift, your wife gets ready to pull. When you have held it up long enough for her to take the carpet out a dozen times she asks in a rather uncertain tone why in the name of common sense you don't lift and not keep her waiting all day.

You drop the stove just here to make a few remarks; but the heart-rending screams of your wife, who has her hand caught under the foot of the same, cause you to lift it again with such force and abruptness that loosens the pipe and brings three joints and an elbow down upon your unfortunate head. The other piece falls on the mantel and wrecks $25 worth of statuary and ruins a cabinet photo of your mother-in-law.

Your wife now ceases operations to bind up the injured hand and to weep over her loss while you drag the messly carpet out into the back yard to give it a beating.

You upset two chairs and a stand of plants on your way out, then skin your face on a limb while cutting a switch to beat the article.

After letting the ends drag through the mud awhile, you finally succeed in getting the troublesome thing on the clothes line, but while you are picking up your switch it falls off the other side on the ash pile.

By this time your economical wife has appeared on the porch and calls out—"Why don't you put the carpet on the clothes line and not lay it down in the ashes and dirt?"

This is more than you can stand without retaliation of some kind, so you just make a few remarks not in the church hymnal, and she calls you a brute and declares if it were not for the children she would leave such a man.

As soon as you are certain that she has gone into the house you make another heroic effort and succeed in getting the carpet securely hung on the line, and then just as you are going under it to the other side for your switch the miserable rope breaks, the carpet drops and the line peals all the bark off your nose in its rapid descent.

By this time you are thoroughly in earnest. You make use of all the cuss words you have ever heard and a few that have not as yet come into date.

Your wife cheers your drooping spirits by yelling from an upstairs window that you must be a millionaire, judging from the careless and reckless manner in which you are handling her best carpet, the one her poor dear mother gave her, and that if you had been compelled to pay for it you would be more careful—you have a spite at it, just because mother gave it, etc. Of course, these things do not trouble you as much as mending the broken line, which, however, you succeed in accomplishing at last, and then you begin beating.

For fifteen seconds after the first stroke you are enveloped in a mist of lime, ashes, and sand. Your eyes are full of dirt, You strike out blindly and the next time the switch comes around it strikes an over-hanging branch and descends in a circle, striking you on the ear.

Then it is that you put in your best licks. You pound that carpet until you are exhausted and have only started in the renovating business.

Being somewhat angry and tired, you catch it by two corners and start for the house backward and come up rather suddenly against the porch post with a thump that makes your head ring.

By this time your devoted help-mate, who has repented of what she has said and done, opens the door and comes to your assistance.

She makes two or three frantic dives to catch the stray corners of the carpet to prevent them from becoming soiled and finds herself in a heap under the table.

Then you both lose your temper and spend the next fifteen minutes in picking flaws in each others early life and making threats for the future.

Then you draw the carpet back to the parlor and proceed to rearrange the same. You get down on your knees and your wife hands you the tacks.

They are of all varieties with now and then a stray suspender button to give spice to the entertainment.

There are tacks without heads, tacks without points and tacks without either.

The hammer is not to be found, so the object placed in your hand is the griddle lifter. While this improvised hammer is coming down on your thumb the office boy comes with a note from a creditor which stated that the said creditor had called to pay a bill of long standing, but not finding you at your place of business, had departed for the Far West, taking with him $122 of your money.

This is too much for even a Christian to bear, and for the next half-hour that room is full of flying tacks, griddle lifters and emphatic words, whose intensity so agitate and frighten your wife that she goes into hysterics and has to be carried to bed. By this time you begin to realize the fact that your afternoon has been the most disastrous of your life.

You then wash your hands and wipe the dirt on the towel, and start down street to procure the necessary help to finish your attempted designs on that carpet.

On securing the desired assistance, you pay your respects and twenty-five cents to the druggist for patching up your injured parts with court plaster and then you proceed to your office, where you make out the following bill to show your wife how much she knows of economy:

Dr.

To loss of old debt	$122.00
" " " Statuary	25.00
" " " clothes line	.40
" Mother in law's photo	.09
" Lords Prayer and frame	3.30
" Injury done carpet	2.60
" Repairing stove	1.80
" Oil painting	12.50
" Lost time	2.20
" Court plaster	.25
	160.30

Cr.

By cost of bonnet	$5.00
" spring suit	4.00
" help to clean house	3.00
	12.00

Which subtracted from $160.30, leaves a balance of $148.30 in favor of the bonnet and spring suit, and also leaves you with not only a poor opinion of your wife as an economist, but of yourself as a Christian. However, you secure the desired help and your injuries are soon forgotten. You cannot but shudder when you think of the narrow escape you made with your life, and how near you came to losing your church standing on that fatal day when you assisted with the house cleaning.

ACCIDENT AT A LIME QUARRY.

GEORGE ZIMMERMAN, TERRANCE MURRAY AND THEODORE MCNICHOL INJURED BY FALLING STONES.

During wet weather the danger from falling stones, for those who work in a lime quarry, is always greater than at other times. It is very rarely, however, that accidents occur at McCalmont's quarries because of the careful surveillance always maintained. A very sad accident occurred there on Friday shortly after 1 o'clock.

Theodore McNichol, George Zimmerman and Terrance Murray were at work as usual, not noticing, however, that loose rock threatened them from above. Without warning, the mass descended, striking each of them and inflicting injuries more or less serious. George Zimmerman was struck on the head and his skull fractured. He remained unconscious for a long time. His condition is considered very precarious. He lives in Milesburg.

Terrance Murray was quite badly hurt about the body. It is hoped that none of his injuries are internal.

Theodore McNichol is the foreman. His injuries consisted of quite a severe cut extending along the forearm and hand.

The accident causes all connected with the quarries to feel very badly. It was considered almost impossible for a serious accident to occur there. Mr. McCalmont spent most of his time looking for possible dangers and the men were also cautioned to keep a vigilant lookout. Stones or rocks which were considered dangerous were always detached before the men were permitted to work near the place. But in this instance, the rocks fell without warning and with the sad result described.

The Last Session of the Presbytery of Huntingdon.

"Susquehanna," in the Altoona Tribune, thus reports the resolutions adopted and some other business transacted in the concluding session of the recent meeting of Presbytery of Huntingdon:

First That presbytery expresses its commendation and grateful recognition of the self-denying and efficient work of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

Second That pastors be requested to preach to their congregations and earnestly set forth the evils resulting from the liquor traffic.

Third That as far as possible church members use their influence as Christian citizens to secure the election to office of such as are favorable to temperance.

Fourth That we recommend to the churches of the presbytery to promote the passage of the proposed constitutional amendment, even to the extent of relieving their pastors from their pulpit duties.

Fifth. That presbytery recommends the organization of temperance societies in the Sunday schools.

Sixth. That we endorse the principle of constitutional prohibition and exhort pastors, elders and members of our churches to do all in their power to secure the incorporation of the principle in the constitution of the state.

The next stated meeting will be held at Alexandria in October. An adjourned meeting will be held in the First church of Altoona, on the second Tuesday in June, at 2 o'clock p. m. After a vote of thanks to the people of Curwensville for their cordial hospitality the presbytery adjourned.

Important Ruling.

Commissioner Tanner, of the Pension Bureau, with the approval of the Secretary of the interior, issued the following ruling:

Pursuant to the act of Congress approved March 1, 1889, whenever a pension certificate of any character, original, increase, restoration, arrears of or otherwise shall have been issued by this bureau and the beneficiary mentioned therein is found to have died before payment, the amount due on said certificate, to the date of said pensioner's death, will be paid to the widow of such pensioner. If there be no widow, then said amount will be paid to the minor children of said deceased pensioner. If there be neither widow nor minor children, then the amount due said deceased pensioner will in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior, be paid to the executor or administrator of his estate.

Minor children, as contemplated by this act, are minors recognised as such by the law of the locality in which the pensioner lived.

All About a Carpet.

The excitement of Satureday was at Joseph Brother's Store. It was all about a carpet which, after an extended journey, found its way to Cunningham's store on High street. In this movement, Mr. W. E. Hendrixson and J. D. Williams were the chief actors and the excitement for a while was intense. Mr. William T. Markle, however, was the angel of peace and poured oil on the troubled waters which are now as calm as usual.

It is said, however, that a challenge to engage in a duel is pending and that the battle will be renewed any place this side of the North Pole. Mr. Hendrixson will choose the weapon and if the spot selected is in a warm climate he will shoot Mr. Williams with a dish of ice cream and W. will return the shot with a well loaded glass of soda water.

NEW STYLE PLEASANT TASTE

The Most Perfect Medical Preparation of the Age.

The New Style Vinegar Bitters

Is of a clear, dark reddish amber color. It has a delicious taste. It is a most invigorating tonic. It is a gentle and painless, but thorough cathartic It contains no opium. It contains no poison or hurtful drug of any sort.

New Style Vinegar Bitters purifies the blood, beautifies the complexion, strengthens the nerves, muscles and brain, drives away malaria, and keeps the system so strong as to enable it to repel infectious diseases and epidemics generally.

The organs of the body most given to shirking their regular work are the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys. A medicine that stimulates these organs into healthy action without causing pain, is invaluable?

New Style Vinegar Bitters does this, and it does the work permanently. It never robs Peter to pay Paul, as alcoholic and other (so-called) remedies do. It is a most grateful, healing medicine to all who are troubled with piles, for it relieves at once, and soon cures this most painful disorder.

It aids digestion, cures constipation, headache, bilious complaints, feverishness, neuralgia, nervous diseases of every sort, and every class of skin disease known.

As a Family Medicine, for the use of ladies, children and men of sedentary habits, the New Style Vinegar Bitters has no equal in the world. It is invaluable for curing the ills that beset childhood, and gently regulates the diseases to which women at every period of life are subject.

Ladies, get a bottle from your druggist and try it. If your druggist has not the New Style Vinegar Bitters, ask him to send for it. If you once try it you will never be without this priceless remedy in the house.

Local Department.

—The mornings are decidedly cool.

—The curb market will open next Saturday morning.

—How unaminously they are denouncing Mr. Carnegie!

—There will be a National Convention of barbers at Pittsburg May 2.

—Philipsburg has a base ball team with Will Tyson as President.

—Next Sunday—Easter—the churches will all be profusely decorated with flowers.

—Improvements are in progress in ex-Sheriff D. Z. Kline's residence on Spring street.

—Of the 550 telephones in Wheeling, W. Va., 42½ were burned out during an electrical storm last week.

—James Miller, a former telegraph operator on the Tyrone Division, died in Tyrone on Friday evening.

—New York city has adopted a new rule of hospitality. It is that all invited guests must pay their own expenses.

—Two messages on the telephone which are almost as frequent as "Hello!" are "Can't get them" and "The line's in use."

—There is a goneness about Mr. Albert Lucas' face which makes us believe that he has parted from some of his beard.

—About 35 young men attended the Y M C A meeting on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Ed. Everett Hoshour conducted it in an especially interesting manner.

—"Uneasy lies the head which wears a crown," especially the crown of the Czar of Russia. Another attempt, it is said, was made to kill him the other day.

—The twenty-eighth annual International Convention of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in Philadelphia from May 8 to 12. It is expected to be the largest in the history of the Association.

—The Educator is the name of a Prohibition paper, published in Pittsburg, which now comes to see us once a month, though we see it is not a new paper as the present number is 10 of Vol. 3.

—"George," she said, shyly, as she withdrew her lingering lips from his, "I think I smell whiskey on your breath. "Wrong, Edith, dear; you'll have to guess again." And she guessed again.

—A traveling man told us on Saturday that he found business better in Bellefonte than he had found it elsewhere for a long time past. This speaks well for the condition of affairs in our town.

—Great success in angling for trout is reported by the fishers who plied the streams on Monday. Jno. G. Love and Wilbur F. Reeder, Esqs., maintained the reputation of the legal fraternity at the art piscatorial.

—Charles Schoffner, of Harrisburg, who was a brakeman on the railroad near Altoona, was killed on Sunday morning by his head coming in contact with the top of a bridge while near a station known as Graziers.

—The boys should not be permitted to use their sling shots in the borough. Why, in some places a boy is arrested if found with one in his possession. They are exceedingly dangerous, as by them a person may be injured for life.

—The fishers were out in full force this morning. Harry Green, John Wagner, Wilbur Harris and many others depopulated Spring creek of its speckled inhabitants before the frost was made to disappear before the morning sun.

—The appointment of fourth class postmasters continues steadily, and ever and anon the offices in Centre county figure among them. M. M. Musser has been appotnted postmaster at Aaronsburg and G. S. Gutilius to the office at Millheim.

—"The Stolen Will," as presented in the hall at Eagleville on Saturday evening, under the supervision of the Y W C T U of that place, was a very successful and entertaining affair. The admission was very low, but the net proceeds reached $20 or more.

—Mr. A. L. Miller had very extensive experience on Sunday in his labor as a minister. He filled three appointments for Rev. Mr, Sarvis and consequently preached three times. On Sunday May 5th, he expects to preach to his regular charge to which he has been assigned by this conference.

—If Samuel Johnson, the Delaware county murderer, should eventually shuffle off this mortal sphere at the noose end of a rope he will have no reason to complain that he was not respited often enough. Governor Beaver has again postponed his execution until June 4. He has also respited Clark, the Greene county murderer, until June 25.

—The electrical storm of Friday proved not only a severe one, but also quite destructive to life and property. In Altoona a house was struck by lightning; at Elk Garden, Md., a man was killed; at Franklin, Pa., a tank containing 3900 barrels of naptha, was destroyed by the electric fluid; two boys at Frugality, Pa., were instantly killed.

TWO REPRESENTATIVE CITIZENS.

JAMES M ZIMMERMAN AND JOHN FETZER, OF MILESBURG.

It is customary to print articles about such men as Jay Gould, Vanderbilt, and others, but there is much of interest to write about persons who are nearer home and in whom our people are more directly interested.

We believe it is a fact that people live longer than they did a century ago. It is common now to meet persons who have passed their three quarters of a century, who are still hale and hearty and apparently have another quarter century ahead of them.

We give only one instance.

On Saturday two citizens of near Milesburg were in Bellefonte. One of them—Mr. James M Zimmerman—has been a subscriber to this paper ever since it has had an existence. He is active and in excellent health. Several years ago he had rheumatism, but says it was cured with such a simple remedy as cayenne pepper and kerosene oil. Mr. Zimmerman was at one time somewhat elated over the prospect of receiving his portion of a fortune of $100,000,000 which is in Germany and awaits its legal division among many heirs. But there are legal documents yet to be found and which he thinks are now somewhere in Montgomery county, this state, before the property can be divided. It is so long coming that he thinks but little about it now. But it was not this fact which we meant to elaborate upon, but the fact that he was born in 1812 and although yet so quick in action and so buoyant in spirit he is 77 years of age. The gentleman with him was from the same locality. We were not personally acquainted with him before, but were glad to make his acquaintance. He is Mr. John Fetzer, and we were glad to add his name to our subscription list. He asked us to guess his age and we supposed that he was about sixty years old. "I was born in 1814" he said. This makes him 75 years of age. On Saturday he walked seven miles without thinking anything of it and has walked twelve miles at a stretch.

Mr. Fetzer is a well known and quite affluent citizen. He owns and he wants to sell some of this property which is the best in Central City and vicinity. Not caring to cultivate his farms any longer he will sell them, and some of the houses and lots in Central City, which he owns, are desirable properties and the purchaser can secure excellent bargains. Call on or write to him in Milesburg for full particulars.

TWO FARMS AND SEVERAL HOUSES

But this was not the principal thing we desired to say of him. He has been a very generous man—too liberal for his own good—and if it had not been that he lost a great deal of money by lending it to others or going on notes or bonds for friends he would be thousands of dollars richer than he is. Then he was unfortunate several years ago, his handsome house containing valuable furniture being destroyed by fire and not a cent of insurance on it.

But he does not allude to these losses regretfully. He is very cheerful and has all he wants, but considers that at 75 he is old enough to give up active work. We suppose that there is something in being a subscriber to this paper which adds to the length of life and cheerfulness of the individual. At least these two aged men consider it so.

We do not cite them as unusual instances. Centre county contains hundreds of citizens as old or older than these gentlemen who are still active and in the best of health. They are enjoying a peaceful and happy old age. In some communities, doubtless, they would be considered old, but in Centre county it is not so. They will live long in the land to vote for and enjoy the fruits of Prohibition and to be first class Republicans.

Music for Easter.

The music to be rendered at the two services in the Episcopal church next Sunday is as follows:

MORNING.

Processional Hymn, "Come all ye Faithful." Sullivan.

Hymn 99—"Christ the Lord is Risen To-day."

Communion Service. W. H. Monk.

Offertory Anthem—"Why seek ye the Living among the Dead?" Solos by Messrs. John Bullock and W. Fred Reynolds and Master Robert Bradley.

Recessional Hymn, No. 103, "The Strife is O'er."

EVENING.

Processional and recessional hymns the same as in the morning.

The usual chants, to music by Miss Bradley, the organist.

Hymn 101—"Angels, roll the Rock Away."

Hymn 104—"Jesus Lives."

The Offertory solo, by Miss Julia Valentine.

—Here is an item which we take from the Tyrone correspondence of the Altoona Tribune of Saturday. It is of interest in this county, because most of the friends of the deceased reside here. "James Miller a former telegraph operator on the Tyrone division and well-known by all railroad men, and who has been a great sufferer from lung troubles for some years past, died yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, at the home of William T. Young, on Grant street, where he had made his home. He has been a great sufferer. Notice of the time of the funeral has not yet been made known." The young man was taken to Howard where the funeral took place Monday.

DEDICATED.

THE INTERESTING SERVICES IN GRAY'S M. E. CHURCH—A DEBT OF $2,000 PAID.

The Methodist church building at Gray's appointment at Half Moon, is said to be one of the neatest in the county. It was just finished, is of brick, in handsome style and is neat and churchly inside and out. On Sunday morning it was dedicated, there being a large attendance of people and several ministers. Rev. E. J. Gray, of Williamsport, preached the dedicatory sermon, from the text, "Praise the Lord."

His discourse was very much admired. Rev. G. A. Bouse, of Milesburg, Rev. Carver, of Warriors Mark, and Rev. Sarvis, of Pleasant Gap, were also present and took part in the services.

What pleased the people most and is certainly proof of the healthy condition of religion in that congregation is the fact that $2000 were raised and the church was dedicated free of debt. This manifested a very generous spirit on the part of the Methodists of that locality. We congratulate them on the excellent result, which is even better than they dared to hope.

—The borough council held its regular meeting on Monday evening. Seven members were present. The Street committee report was the first important item of business. Mr. Potter, for the committee, reported that the wall at one side of bridge near Phœnix flouring mill had been repaired; the street from Reynolds' mill to the top of the hill had received an application of cinder; repairs had been made on the street near the dam and work is now in progress on Thomas street. Mr. Gault reported that a stable had been procured for a town pound, and all cows found out late at night, unaccompanied by an escort, will be fined and imprisoned and the members of the council will drink the milk. The citizens of East High street presented a petition for the extension of water service to their properties. The extension would involve considerable expense and this consideration influenced the council to lay the petition on the table. The Ridge street folks promised to keep the hydrants on that street in repair if they are allowed to remain on the street, which council agreed to. The matter of the injuries received a year ago by John Brian, who fell on the pavement in front of Brown's house on Bishop street, was broached and it was referred to the Street and Finance committees to ascertain the council's libility in the matter.

A New Relief Department.

A Relief Department similar in its operations to that for some time in operation on the main line and eastern branches of the Pennsylvania system is now about being instituted on the lines of the Pennsylvania company west of Pittsburg and the officers have been for some time casting about for a suitable man to put at the head of the medical examining department.

The selection has been made and Dr. G. D. Arnold is the gentleman who will be chief medical examiner with headquarters at Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Arnold has been examining physician of the Relief Department for the district embracing the main line from Bellwood to Huntington and all of Tyrone Division almost ever since the Department was started. The Tyrone Herald believes that the Doctor, who resides in Tyrone, is the best man they could have selected to make the new department a success.

Isaac Miller's House Burned.

On Monday afternoon the house occupied by Mr. Isaac Miller, located on the hill above the forge, was burned to the ground. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were away from home at the time and returned to find their house in ashes. The fire, we hear, started on the roof. Most of the contents was destroyed, although a few articles were carried out. The house was owned by Mr. Robert Valentine.

LATER PARTICULARS.

We are informed that the fire occurred about 5 o'clock and that it caught on roof from a spark. A small girl and boy were the only occupants of the house at the time and there was no insurance on the property.

Terrible injuries in a Runaway.

Abram Hicks, an aged gentleman at Scotia, met with what may prove to be a fatal accident on Sunday. He was just getting into his buggy, when his horse ran away and he was thrown from the vehicle on to the hard road.

Dr Thomas Tobin examined his injuries and found that three of his ribs had become disconnected from the backbone. Considering the severity of his injuries and the age of Mr. Hicks, it is feared that he will not recover.

—Rev. D. V. Gearhart, D. D., President of the theological seminary at Lancaster, Pa., will preach at the Reformed church on Easter Sunday, morning and evening. The Holy Communion will be administered in connection with the morning services. Preparatory services on Saturday afternoon at half-past two o'clock.

Religious Topics.

SOMETHING ABOUT CHURCH SEASONS AND SERMONS.

This week is known to the church as Holy Week, the concluding week of Lent. Observers of Lent have fasted and employed self denial since Ash Wednesday and will continue to do so still more rigorously during this week.

Thursday is commonly known as Maunday Thursday or Holy Thursday. Friday is Good Friday—which commemorates the Crucifixion. Sunday next will be Easter. It is surely unnecessary to tell anyone what it commemorates.

On Sunday morning Rev. J. O. Davis, rector of the Episcopal church, preached a most admirable and eloquent sermon on the entry of Christ into Jerusalem on that eventful first Palm Sunday. He told first what Palm Sunday signifies. His description of the admiration in which the people held Jesus at that time, strewing palms in his way so that not even the feet of the animal on which Jesus rode should be soiled by contact with the earth, was fine. He described the beauty and grandeur of the Temple which they were approaching and the Kingly act of Jesus in cleansing it. The expectations of the crowd were explained, and then the mournful turning away of Jesus to submit to the fate and degradation so near their culmination. What must have been the thoughts of Jesus at that time were graphically portrayed as he contemplated not only his own suffering, but also the suffering of the people who were now rendering him adulation. In conclusion these circumstances were applied to our own individual lives and people now in their religious convictions were shown to be as fickle and weak as they were then. The sermon was on such an impressive and thrilling theme and was expressed in such appropriate and exalted language as to sway any but the most inattentive hearer. Before the sermon the congregation were exhorted to an observance of abstemiousness during Holy week. What if it does give you a headache? said the rector: Did not our Saviour's head ache when receiving the crown of thorns? Did not his back ache when carrying the cross up Calvary? And should we, his followers, be better than He?

IN THE METHODIST CHURCH.

There were overflow congregations in the Methodist church both morning and evening. The new pastor, Rev. W. A. Houck, produced if possible even a better impression then on the Sunday previous. He is a gentleman of average height with hair only slightly tinged with gray. He speaks deliberately and distinctly, every syllable well enunciated. His sermons thus far have been full of learning and thought, made more impressive by appropriate and telling illustrations. On Sunday evening his text consisted of only two words, viz., "True Religion," as used by St. James in the 27th verse of the first chapter of his Epistle.

He began by saying that descriptions of points in the Arctic regions include a statement that three suns seem to be perpetually shining. But whether, apparently, three or three hundred suns we know there is but one and that the others are only reflections; there are many systems of religion, but only one that is true.

Some things are better described by telling what they are not; he would tell at this time some of the things which true Religion is not, and perhaps at a future time tell what it is. It is not mere noisy talk or profession. He illustrated by the drum which makes much sound because of its emptiness and described an incident during his experience as chaplain in the army, when the thousands of men, though terribly in earnest, spoke not a word. Fluency and feeling do not always go together. Once Chalmers found a woman so hesitating and ignorant that he was inclined to forbid her coming to the Holy Communion. But her testimony that though she could not talk for Christ yet she would be willing to die for him brought her a quick invitation to come to the sacrament.

True religion is not quarreling with others because they differ from us on theological questions neither is it in forms and ceremonies. The picture he drew of the town as seen by a traveler with its many church spires and that bow of promise in the heavens encircling them all was beautiful. Narrow mindedness is not heavenly mindedness. The Spirit was typified in the scriptures by that emblem of peace and gentleness—the dove. We cannot fight effectually for God unless we use the weapons he puts in our hands.

Like the chained eagle which felt its fetters whenever it attempted to rise and cannot soar away unless some friendly hand parts the chain so are we bound to our sins. It is to part the chain that binds sinners down that he comes to Bellefonte. His closing wish was that sinners might find the freedom and solace which true religion will give them.

—The radiator firm of Kelly, O'Hara & Brown have received a very extensive order from New York city to fit up one of the large buildings with steam heat fixtures. The building is that erected for business offices by Eugene Kelly. They also expec to secure an order to fit up the new World building, the entire staff of that paper having inspected the radiator. The order already secured will take 30,000 feet of pipe.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. D. Bates Bell, of Houtzdale, was an arrival on Wednesday.

Mr. F. C. Richards came home on Thursday from a visit to the large cities.

Mr. Chas. Heichel, of Eagleville, with his young son, visited Bellefonte on Wednesday.

Capt. Austin Curtin, of the State Reformatory, Huntingdon, spent Sunday in Bellefonte.

Rev. W. L. Hayden will be one of the speakers on the occasion of the High School Arbor Day exercises.

Judge Furst did not forget to angle for trout on Monday. He caught eighteen—some of which were very large.

Mr. Geo. Potts and daughters are now pleasantly located in their residence on the corner of Spring and High streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ballou, of Milesburg, went to Lock Haven on Wednesday to attend the funeral of Robert McCloskey.

Simon King and F. T. Kern, of Coburn, have gone to the West, the former to Oshkosh, Wis., and the latter to Duluth, Minnesota

Mr. Frank Woodring, of Port Matilda, is now clerking in Gray's store at Philipsburg and makes an excellent knight of the yard stick.

Rev. W. H. H. Snyder has been spending the past two weeks at Atlantic City where we hope the fresh sea breezes will greatly benefit him.

Mr. Allen, a representative of the Travelers' Insurance Company and located in Williamsport, is with Mr. D. Bates Bell doing up the town in the insurance business.

William H. Wigton, of Philipsburg, who has for a long while been disabled from the effect of a broken leg, is now able to be about again with the aid of crutches.

W. E. Gray, Esq., who has been ill for three or four months, during which he was confined to his home, is again able to be at his law office here and looks quite well.

Mr. Philip E Young, who was a resident of Bellefonte last summer and is now living at Corning, N. Y. was married last week. We have not learned the lady's name.

Prof. Frank Atherton, of the State College Banjo Club, has located in Huntingdon and will give instructions on the violin and piano and also teach bands, orchestras and other musical societies.

Mr. W. A. Brown, who we recently recorded as being in Columbia, South Carolina, returned almost before the notice was printed and is now in Centre county teaching the band at Benore.

Frank Adams, of Philipsburg, who is now in Bellefonte, is trying to arrange a game between the Hope base ball team of Philipsburg and the State College and also between the Hopes and the Flemings.

Mr. H. T. Lucas, of Howard, visited Bellefonte on Monday on legal and other business. He is a good looking and pleasant gentleman and is working for the success of the Prohibition Amendment.

Miss Evans, a young lady whose home is at Potters Mills, and who has been teaching school during the winter at Muncy, Pa., is visiting in town at the home of Mrs. Hutchinson. She is on her way to her home at Potters Mills.

Mr. W. K. Van Gilder, who is now at his home in Washington, Pa., sends us a copy of a very excellent daily paper published in that place—"The Washington Journal." It is comparatively a new paper, this being the 63d number.

Mr. A. M. Shaffley rode from State College to Bellefonte on Thursday on a new style bicycle named "The American Rambler." It is a beauty and Mr. W. H. Galway, of the Bellefonte Iron Works, fell head over heels in love with it at first glance.

Our townsman, Hon. John B. Linn, it is said, is preparing an oration to be delivered on the occassion of the approaching celebration of Mifflinburg's centennial, a subject in which he is profoundly interested and of which he has extensive knowledge.

John Igou, the newly reinstated postal route clerk between Tyrone and Lock Haven on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad, took charge Monday morning. We are glad to hear of Mr. Igou's reinstatement, as he was an exceedingly faithful and competent officer.

Miss Mollie Dowling, bookkeeper for the DAILY NEWS and Republican and a very bright young lady, departed Friday morning for Renovo to visit friends. She has had quite a long period of illness and we hope the change will benefit her physically and she will enjoy the visit.

We hear that Mr. Frank E. Bible is about to open an office and begin the practice of the law in Philipsburg. We hope that this is so, because we believe that Mr. Bible has qualifications which will make him a first class if not a brilliant lawyer. He has thorough knowledge of every detail of the law, and his general knowledge is unusually extensive. We wish him all possible success in his new field and indulge the hope that he will vote for Prohibition and become a true blue Republican.

Adam C. Tonner, who was a prominent citizen of Bellefonte previous to 1866, has been appointed by President Harrison, chief of the Appointment Division of the Interior Department, at Washington. He was born in this county, and in early life was a merchant in this borough and also studied law here. He was Deputy Revenue Collector of the Canton, Ohio, district during President Arthur's administration. He was appointed Consul General to the Central American States in 1862, but resigned his commission before going there, fearing the climate. He went to Canton in 1866. He served as assistant Examiner in the Patent Office at Washington from 1860 to 1865.

Beautiful Parlor Decorations in Milesburg.

Mrs John Hibler, of this place, has beautified her parlor by placing upon its walls a paper brought by her father from Germany almost fifty years ago. The walls covered by this heirloom represent scenes in foreign lands. The dark foliage, the glow of sunset and the rich coloring of Turkish costumes are as brilliant and beautiful as though newly painted. All of one side of the spacious room is occupied by a view of the city and bay of Naples, bathed in sunset glow. A scene on the Mediteranean and a Turkish tent and representations of life in Turkey are as faithful to life as is possible in a painting. There are few parlors that can boast of decorations of such historic and artistic value.

C. K. Essington, Sen., of this place, is suffering from cancer of the face. His wife, who has been quite ill, is, we are glad to say, recovering.

W. B. Miles and wife have returned from Philadelphia where they purchased a fine assortment of dry goods for Spring trade.

Our foundry boom seems to have blown o'er, but Mr. J. M. Green's find of ore on his land just above town is of a more substantial character. M.

The Southern Golden Loaf.

To make Southern golden loaf pair and boil six medium-sized potatoes. When done, drain, press through a colander, and add one large tablespoonful of lard or butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, and six eggs, well beaten. Beat the whole continuously for two minutes, add a half pint of milk and a pint of flour; beat again and when luke-warm, add a teacupful of yeast. Mix and stand in a moderately warm place over night. Early in the morning add sufficient flour to make a soft dough. Knead and work thoroughly until the dough will not stick to the hands or board. Form into small loaves, place in greased pans, and when very light bake in a moderately quick oven about forty minutes. Serve warm.

They Angled for Trout too Soon.

SNOW SHOE, Pa., April 16, 1889.

MR. EDITOR, Dear Sir:—I, like a great many others, love trout fishing and am glad that the season for the sport is here. But there are several other parties here that did not wait until the law permitted them to fish, but they undoubtedly violated the fish law. They were seen going through Snow Shoe several times with fishing rods and baskets and with packs on their backs, supposed to contain provisions. They would return very quietly and keep their fish hid. Where is our new constable that he lets this work go on right under his nose? The fish commissioners should look this thing up and punish the violators in the interest of law abiding persons.

JUSTICE.

Fatal Accident at Cook's Run.

COOK'S RUN, April 15.

On Saturday, the 13th, a freight train run off the track at Cook's Run. It was occasioned by the fact that the foreman and crew had removed a rail and had not sent the flagman in time to stop the train. In the wreck, however, no one was hurt.

The construction train was sent for and upon its arrival the crew went to clear the track. About 5 o'clock when they had an anchor attached to the tender of the locomotive and were hauling it on the track a link broke, striking Rudolph Swope on the neck. Another piece struck John Wilson on the side. Swope was killed outright; Wilson will survive his injuries. O. K.

Courteously Treated.

On behalf of the members of the Fleming base ball team, I desire to extend our thanks to Mr. J. Price Jackson, manager, to the players of the P. S. C. team and to the students of the College for courteous treatment received during our visit on Saturday.

Signed, H. U. TIBBENS,
Manager Fleming B. B. C.

—Gen. D. H. Hastings is fixing up his fences—not his political fences, but the one in front of his yard. He will erect it in a substantial manner on top of a stone wall. Mr. John Noll, the staunch Democrat, is performing the work, and if he does it well he expects to get the post-office.
